CAROLINA 1985

Media Information

CREDENTIALS: Working press credentials for Carolina home games can be obtained by contacting Rick Brewer in the Sports Information Office. Brewer's mailing address is P.O. Box 2126, Chapel Hill, N.C. 27514.

Requests are screened with care to insure a working press box. Children, spouses and pets are not allowed in compliance with the working code of the Football Writers Association of America.

FILING COPY: The Department of Athletics furnishes a number of telephones for writers to use in moving their copy from the press box. Anyone desiring a private phone should contact Southern Bell in Chapel Hill.

The Carolina Sports Information Office has one telecopier which will be available for sending copy. An operator's fee of $10 per game will be charged for its use. This fee will cover the cost of a student assistant staying late to send copy. It is strongly suggested, however, that if at all possible, newsmen covering games in Kenan Stadium bring their own telecopiers. This will allow all copy to be moved more quickly and will alleviate any deadline problems.

PRESS BOX SERVICES: Programs, flip cards and statistics will be provided before each game. A play-by-play will be distributed at the conclusion of each quarter. Halftime statistics will also be available. Complete team and individual statistics, a scoring summary and coaches' quotes will be provided after the game.

Lunch will be served on the third level of the press box before each game and at halftime. Soft drinks and coffee are available on the second level (writers' area) throughout the game.

SIDELINE POLICY: Photographers will not be allowed on the sidelines without an armband. Armbands can be picked up in the press box prior to the game. Each photographer must pick up his or her own armband.

INTERVIEWS: Each Tuesday during the football season Dick Crum will be available to the media at a press luncheon. Television and radio tapes can be done at 11:30 a.m. with lunch being served at noon. The press conference follows the meal.

Player interviews can be arranged by contacting the Sports Information Office. Generally, interviews will be set up in Kenan Fieldhouse. However, Carolina's actual locker room is closed to the press during the season except on Saturdays following games. Play interviews are not allowed on Fridays preceding games.

RADIO NETWORK AND TV SHOW: Over 60 stations in thr states will once again carry the Tar Heel Football Network. T network is operated by Village Companies of Chapel Hill with Dia Smith as manager and Jim Heavner as executive producer. Woo Durham handles the play-by-play work.

The Carolina Football Show will be televised across the state North Carolina each Sunday. The show features Crum and highligh of the previous game. John Kilgo serves as host.

The 1985 Outlook

Earl Winfield made spectacular catches like this throughout the 1984 season.

Greater experience on defense and better balance on offense give North Carolina hopes for an improved football team in 1985.

Coach Dick Crum's Tar Heels were 5-5-1 last year after winning 45 games in the previous five seasons and going to five straight bowl games. Inexperience on defense and an assortment of injuries to key offensive players were major factors in that 1984 record.

However, as Carolina's young defenders gained experience last fall, they began to play better. The Tar Heels lost only one of their last six games and that finish gives Crum optimism for the upcoming season.

"I think the momentum we had at the end of last season carried over into spring practice," he says. "I was very pleased with our kids' attitude this spring. We worked long and hard, but the spring really went fast. I think the enthusiasm the players showed had a lot to do with that."

Carolina will go into the 1985 season with 39 returning lettermen, 13 of whom were starters last fall. There are several key missing players, however. That group includes tailback Ethan Horton, the Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year in 1984 and the league's leading rusher in each of the past two seasons. Also gone are All-ACC linebacker Micah Moon, fullback Eddie Colson, center Brian Johnston, offensive guard Greg Naron, offensive tackle Bobby Pope and defensive backs Larry and Barry James.

Still, the Tar Heels have good talent and the potential to be a fine football team. But, the defense must continue the improvement it showed late last year and in spring practice.

Carolina has abandoned its traditional 5-2 alignment and will operate from an eight-man front this season. It is a system the Tar Heels used late last year and one which Crum feels will be more effective against the sophisticated offenses his team is now seeing.

The strength of this defense may be up front where four players return who saw a great deal of action down the stretch in 1984. Tackle Reuben Davis, guard Dennis Barron, nose man Tim Goad and end Ron Burton all have the ability to be solid performers.

Davis, a 6-3, 271-pound sophomore from Greensboro, N.C., could, in fact, be one of the best players in the ACC. He was voted Carolina's best defensive lineman as a freshman last year and made more improvement in the spring. He's big, quick and an excellent pass rusher.

Barron also could challenge for all-star honors. The 6-3, 275-pound junior from Wilson, N.C. is the most experienced of all the defensive linemen. He did an excellent job in spring practice and looms as a key figure in the Tar Heel defense.

Goad, a 6-4, 278-pound sophomore from Claudville, Va., got a lot of playing time late last year, starting a couple of games. One of the team's hardest workers, he's a good pass rusher. Burton was a part-time starter last fall but nailed down a regular position during the spring. The 6-1, 240-pound junior from Richmond, Va. has the capabilities to be a big-play performer.

Carolina also has developed depth at these positions. Donnie Wallace, Noel McEacherr and Carlton Bailey all got considerable playing time last year. John Stone, shifted from tight end in the spring, was impressive in the off-season drills and red-shirt freshmen Chris Jacobs and Kubi Kalombo show good promise.

Top candidates for the two linebacking positions are Carl Carr, a 6-3, 216-pound senior from Alexandria, Va.; Brett Rudolph, a 6-2, 228-pound sophomore from Chagrin Falls, Ohio; and Troy Simmons, a 6-1, 217-pound senior from Fayetteville, N.C.

Carr started in the latter part of last season and then played well in spring practice. Rudolph saw backup duty last year, but won a starting job in the off-season. Simmons started throughout the 1984 season, but was sidelined much of the spring with a pulled hamstring. All three will play a lot this fall. Veteran Tim Rorrer and newcomer Leonard Dempsey will also get playing time.

One of the biggest surprises of the spring was the play of Larry Griffin at cornerback. Griffin, a 6-1, 197-pound senior from Chesapeake, Va., had been a wide receiver throughout his Tar Heel career, but was shifted to the secondary during the off-season.

e immediately won a starting berth and, in ct, was so impressive that Carolina coaches ate him as a top all-star candidate.

Derrick Donald, a 5-11, 191-pound ophomore from Lenoir, N.C., will start at the pposite corner. He played a great deal last ear after Walter Bailey was injured against lemphis State in the seventh game of the ason. Sophomore Eric Starr could push for hat job.

The deep man in the defense at free safety ill be either Darryl Johnson or Tim lorrison. Morrison, a 6-1, 187-pound senior om Fayetteville, N.C., is an extremely alented player with a lot of experience. He has he ability to be one of the ACC's best efenders.

However, Morrison missed almost all of pring practice with a broken left arm, llowing Johnson to move into that spot. ohnson, a 5-11, 187-pound senior from harlotte, N.C., is a former walk-on who has arned a scholarship with his smart and ggressive play. Now that he has finally won a pot in the starting lineup, it may be difficult o get him out of it.

Three former offensive players—wide eceiver Norris Davis, tailback Antonio Goss nd quarterback John Keller—are in the fight or playing time at Carolina's two strong safety ositions. Davis goes into the fall as the starter t one spot with Keller and Joel Freeze also ontending for that job.

Davis is a 6-1, 208-pound sophomore from eston, Va. with the tools to be an outstanding layer. He just needs experience. The same is rue for Keller, a 6-5, 225-pound freshman rom Toledo, Ohio. Freeze, a 6-2, 210-pound sophomore from Rockville, Md., also has good bility, but has been hampered by a shoulder injury in his time in Chapel Hill.

Howard Feggins, a 5-9, 196-pound sophomore from South Hill, Va., ended the spring as the starter at the other safety or ram position. He played a lot on special teams last year and also saw some duty in the defensive backfield. Goss, a 6-4, 213-pound freshman from Randleman, N.C., is expected to press for that spot.

Another possibility at the ram is Bailey. He suffered a knee injury in the Memphis State game last year and missed the rest of the season and all of the spring work. However, if he's 100 percent this fall, he has the skills plus the experience to win the starting job.

"We've got more experience on defense than we had last year," says Crum, "and that will certainly be a big help. Our front four has good possibilities and I was pleased with the way our younger people played in the secondary during the spring. Carl Carr had an excellent spring at linebacker and I think we're going to get good play there."

Crum's biggest concern is getting good play in the offensive line where only two starters return from last fall. Those two—guard C.A. Brooks and tackle Harris Barton—have all-star capabilities. But, the rest of the interior will be inexperienced.

Brooks, a 6-4, 255-pound junior from Cincinnati, Ohio, started every game at right guard last fall and did an outstanding job. Tar Heel coaches voted him their best offensive lineman and he rates as a strong candidate for all-star honors.

William Humes, diving for yardage here against N.C. State, is a key player at tailback.

Barton, a 6-4, 268-pound junior from Atlanta, Ga., is also expected to challenge for post-season honors, perhaps on the national level. He started 12 games at center in 1983 and then opened the 1984 season at that same position. However, when an early-season injury cut down tackle Pat Sheehan, Barton was switched to that spot. He has remained at left tackle where the Tar Heels can make better use of his excellent pass-blocking skills.

Sheehan, a 6-3, 260-pound junior from Princeton, N.J. will replace the 270-pound Naron at left guard. Ralph Phifer, a 265-pound sophomore from Mooresville, N.C., will move into the 280-pound Johnston's spot at center and Daryl Parham, a 6-7, 255-pound sophomore from Lynchburg, Va., will take the 280-pound Pope's right tackle position. Parham was shifted to offense from defensive end midway through spring practice.

"This is going to be the smallest offensive line we've had at Carolina," says Crum. "But, these kids are capable of handling more weight and hopefully they'll gain some during the summer."

Top backups in the offensive interior figure to be five red-shirt freshmen—center Jeff Garnica, tackles Steve Steinbacher and Darrell Hamilton and guards Tim Brooks and Dennis Clemons. In fact, there is not a senior anywhere in the line.

"The bright spots offensively are that we have an experienced quarterback in Kevin Anthony and better speed in the backfield," says Crum. "Kevin has a year under his belt now and he played with more poise and confidence in the spring."

Anthony completed 146 of 265 passes last fall for 1,786 yards and eight touchdowns. The 6-2, 185-pound junior from Decatur, Ga. set school season records for passing yardage, passes attempted and total offense. He led the ACC in completions and was second in total offense.

The question at quarterback concerns the backup job. With Mark Maye sidelined for the season after shoulder surgery, the Tar Heels are looking for a solid number two man. Walk-on Wes Sweetser ended the spring in that role although red-shirt freshman Mike Bowman is expected to challenge for that position this fall.

When Anthony takes to the air, he will be throwing to an outstanding group of receivers. That corp is headed by tight end Arnold Franklin and flanker Earl Winfield, both of whom rank as leading all-star candidates.

Franklin, a 6-4, 241-pound senior from Lincoln Heights, Ohio, goes into his final season as Carolina's sixth-leading all-time receiver. He had 27 catches last year and is also a superb blocker. Tar Heel coaches feel he may be the best tight end in the country.

The 6-0, 187-pound Winfield, a senior from Petersburg, Va., was third in the ACC in catches last year with 34, many of them circus grabs. He has the speed and running ability to be a game-breaker at wide receiver. Winfield goes into the fall after a great showing in the spring.

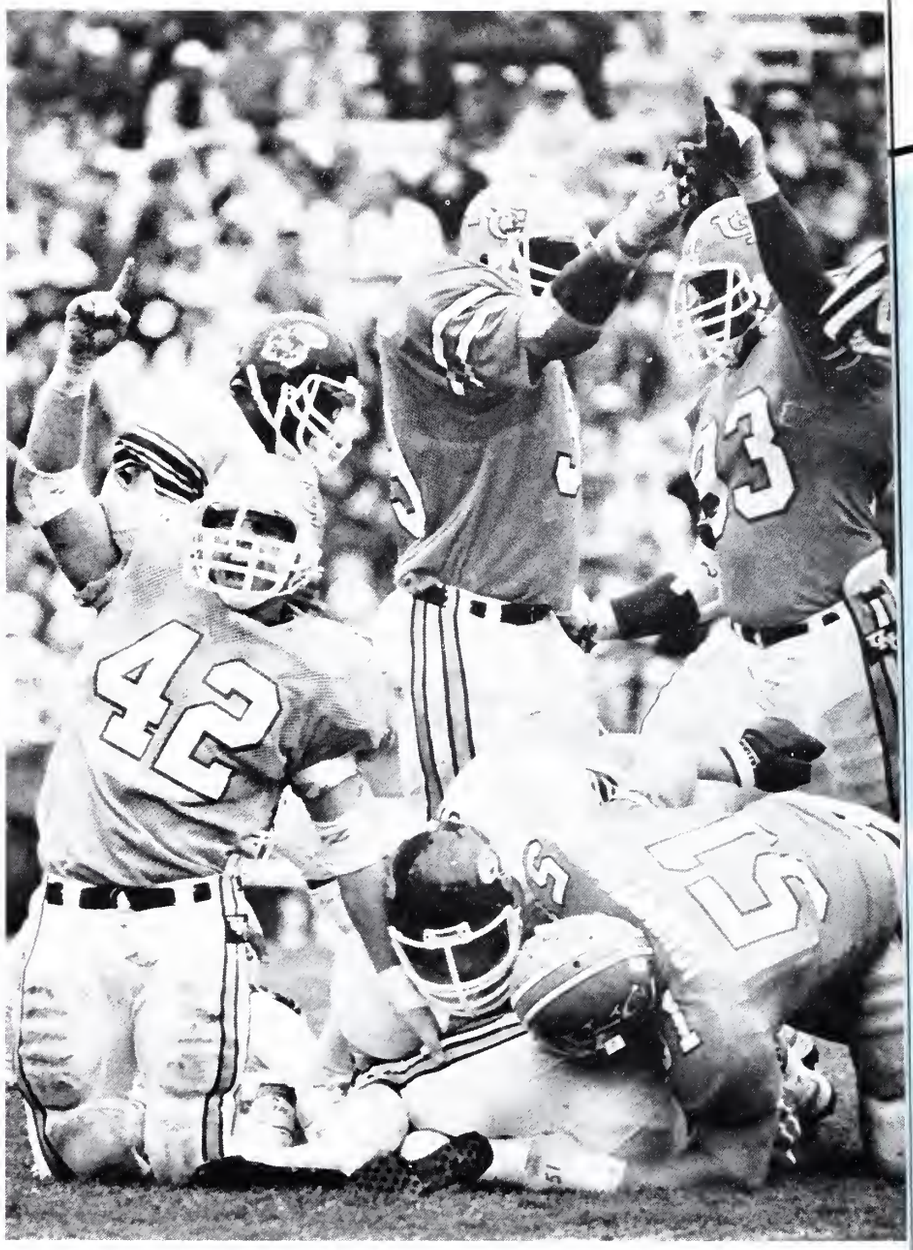
Other veteran receivers are tight end Dave Truitt, who missed the 1984 season with an injury, and wide-outs Eric Streater and Eric Lewis. Streater had 21 catches, four for touchdowns, last year. Additional depth at tight end will come from red-shirt freshman Damon Hueston, who had a fine spring, and sophomore Tripp Hardy. Freshmen Randy Marriott and Junnie Demery and sophomores Quint Smith and Kenny Miller are other possibilities at wide receiver.

The presence of those receivers and the ability of Anthony should result in a more balanced attack. Carolina ran the ball five out of eight times last fall. Crum wants that run-pass ratio to be closer to 50 percent and a great deal of time was spent throwing the football during the spring.

However, that does not mean the Tar Heels are going to forsake their traditional tailback-oriented I-formation. While Carolina will line up in a number of different sets, the basic offense will still be run from the I.

Without Horton the ground game may appear different, however. Horton, the first back chosen in last spring's NFL draft, was a 6-4, 218-pound slasher with great power and durability. All of the Tar Heels' current tailbacks are much smaller, although some have more speed and quickness than Horton.

Best bet to open the season at that spot is William Humes, a 6-0, 190-pound junior from Asheville, N.C., who was the top backup last fall. Humes rushed for 302 yards, averaging 5.0 yards a carry. He had 156 of those yards in one game against N.C. State.



Carolina's defense will be counted on to make a lot of big plays this fall, like this fumble recovery against Kansas last year.

His top challenger is Brad Sullivan, a 5-11, 194-pound red-shirt freshman from Durham, N.C. Sullivan has great speed and was very impressive in the spring.

Brad Lopp, a 6-1, 208-pound sophomore from Jefferson, N.C., and Norman Becton, a 6-1, 215-pound sophomore from Cove City, N.C., are the leading contenders for the fullback job. Lopp ended the spring at the top of the depth chart, but Becton should challenge him again for the starting job this fall.

The kicking game appears to be in good shape with the return of punter Tommy Barnhardt and place-kicker Kenny Miller. Barnhardt averaged 43.6 yards a punt last year, the fifth-highest single-season mark in school history. He enters his senior season with a career average of 41.9, the fourth-highest ever at Carolina.

Miller was given a chance to win the place-kicking job in the third game last year and took advantage of it. He connected on 16 of 18 field goals, including a record 15 in a row. He will probably handle long-range field goals and kickoffs this fall with Lee Gliarmis doing the other kicking.

"Overall, we're going to have a lot more experience than we did a year ago," says Crum. "But, we're still going to be a very young football team. At the end of the spring we only had five seniors in the starting lineup.

"We've got a lot of work to do in the offensive line and the schedule is certainly demanding. Still, I think we have the potential to develop into a good gootball team."

Numerical Roster

(This roster includes all varsity and freshman players. There are some duplicate numbers simply because Carolina has more players than numbers. However, in all cases of duplication one player is on offense and the other defense. Final positions for the freshmen will be decided when they arrive on campus this fall. There could be some number changes at that time.)

What Crum Says About:

SPRING PRACTICE

"I was pleased with what we accomplished in the spring. We worked pretty hard, but the players showed a lot of enthusiasm.

"I was especially happy with the way we played defensively. We're more experienced and more mature there than we were last year and that showed in the spring.

"Offensively, we improved as the spring went along. We had to find replacements for five key people on offense and it took a while for our new kids to settle into those spots."

THE OFFENSE

"We want to throw the football more than we have in the past. I see us throwing 30 to 35 times a game. We want to use the passing game to help us win, not just so we can throw the ball 60 times every week. Our offensive line is going to be smaller than in the past and certainly that was a factor in the decision to rely more heavily on the pass.

"In William Humes and Brad Sullivan, we have two very good, solid tailbacks. We're not going to let their talents go to waste. We've worked hard to improve our passing attack, but I also think we can run the football."

KEVIN ANTHONY

"He's going to have a lot to say about our offensive success because we're going to give him a lot of latitude on the field. He's a good, smart quarterback who has made a lot of improvement in the past year.

"For one thing, he has a year of experience under his belt and that's going to help him tremendously. He didn't have any last year and still did a pretty good job for us. Now, with one season behind him, he should be an even better quarterback this fall."

ARNOLD FRANKLIN

"He's capable of having a great senior season, an All-America season. I can't imagine many other tight ends who are better all-around players.

"Arnold is a very steady player who has always been a good receiver. Now he's become an exceptional one. Plus, once he catches the football he has the speed to run with it.

"At 240 pounds he's an excellent blocker. I know number of receptions is very important when all-star teams are chosen, but a tight end also has to be able to block. No tight end in our league blocks as well as Arnold and I'd be surprised if there were any in the country. He really has the blocking techniques of an interior lineman.

"We're counting on him being one of our team leaders this year. We're going to have a young offensive line and we need for him to add some maturity to it."

THE DEFENSE

"The fact we finished up pretty well last ye is because our defense started to get better. W should be much improved there this fall.

"A lot has been made of our shifting from fifty to an eight-man front as our basic systen I really don't think this is a sweeping chang All we're doing is taking one of the package we've had, but not used a lot, and using because it's better suited for all the varie offenses we're now seeing.

"As far as personnel is concerned, we've g good experience up front in Reuben Davi Ron Burton, Dennis Barron and Tim Goa Plus, Donnie Wallace, Chris Jacobs, No McEachern and John Stone give us som depth.

"In Derrick Donald, Larry Griffin and Tir Morrison, we have three good athletes who ar improved at the three deep positions in th secondary.

"We're just going to start three seniors o defense so we will still be a young team. But, will be disappointed if we don't play wel defensively."

STRENGTHS

"I think one strong point is that this grou of players is so enthusiastic. The attitude o the squad was excellent in the spring. An while we're going to be playing a lot of young people, many of them have some experience We'll certainly be more experienced or defense than we were last year.

"I also think we have an excellent group o receivers headed by Arnold Franklin and Earl Winfield. I'm expecting Earl to have a really good senior season."

CONCERNS

"Our offensive line is going to be smaller than in the past and less experienced. In fact, we've lost guys with a lot of experience at tailback, fullback and in the offensive line and will be replacing them with kids who haven't played a lot. We haven't been able to settle on a fullback, although both Brad Lopp and Norman Becton have the ability to handle that job. One of them has to really step forward and take control of that position."

THE GENERAL OUTLOOK

"We will be a better football team than we were last year. Now, I want to give a lot of credit to last year's senior class. Those guys gave us good leadership and kept us going the first half of the season when we were having all sorts of problems. We were simply an inexperienced football team.

"We're still going to be young, probably starting two seniors on offense and three on defense. But, now we have some experience. We learned a lot of things last year that should be beneficial this season."

The Tar Heels

Kevin Anthony

Quarterback
6-2, 185, Junior
Decatur, Ga.

Could challenge for all-star honors in his second year as Carolina's starting quarterback... Set 10 school records last season, including new marks for most total offense and most passing yardage in a year... Had 1,782 yards of total offense, breaking Don McCauley's old Tar Heel record... Broke Scott Stankavage's year-old record for passing yardage in a season with 1,786... Completed 146 of 265 passes for eight touchdowns with 10 interceptions... His 265 attempts were a school record and he missed tying Stankavage's completion mark by just one... Led the Atlantic Coast Conference in completions and was second in the league in total offense... Did an excellent job down the stretch, completing 70 passes in his last four games and 58 in his last three... Already ranks 11th in career completions at Carolina... Threw for a school-record 281 yards against Virginia in the 10th game of the year... Had 288 yards of total offense in that game, the sixth-highest figure in Carolina history and the most ever by a Tar Heel sophomore... Was sensational against the Cavaliers that day, rallying Carolina from a 24-14 deficit in the final six minutes for a 24-24 tie... Took the ball on his own 14 with 5:54 to play and drove the Tar Heels 86 yards for a touchdown in just seven plays and 1:51... Completed four of seven passes on that drive, including a 63-yard bomb to Earl Winfield... Got the TD on an 11-yard pass to Arnold Franklin as the Tar Heels cut the Virginia lead to three... On Carolina's next possession, Anthony took the Tar Heels from their own 11 with 1:30 on the clock to the Cavalier nine where Kenny Miller kicked the tying field goal with only seven seconds left... Anthony had staked Carolina to a 14-0 first-quarter lead that day by catching a 40-yard touchdown pass from Eric Streater on a reverse and then later throwing five yards to Streater for another score... Finished that game with 19 completions in 38 attempts... Had completed a career-high 21 passes a week earlier against Georgia Tech in just 31 attempts... Accounted for all three of Carolina's touchdowns as the Tar Heels won, 24-17... Threw scoring passes to Eric Lewis and Ethan Horton and also caught a touchdown pass from Horton... Passed for 211 yards that day... Followed that with his great play against Virginia and then had his third straight 200-yard performance in the season finale at Duke... Hit on 18 of 33 passes against the Blue Devils for 205 yards... Longest scoring pass of the year was a 37-yarder to Streater against Kansas... In addition to his two touchdown catches, Anthony also scored TDs on a six-yard run against Kansas and an 18-yard run at Memphis State.

Came to Carolina as a freshman in 1982, but was red-shirted and did not play... Saw spot action in six games in 1983 as the top backup to Stankavage... Completed eight of 14 passes for 80 yards... Got his most playing time against Miami, completing five of seven passes for 56 yards... Had a 10-yard touchdown pass in that game... Won the starting quarterback job during spring practice of 1984 in a competitive battle with Mark Maye... With Maye sidelined much of last season with a shoulder injury, Anthony was forced to play without relief... Faced with that responsibility, Anthony matured a lot as a quarterback during the season... Had some adversity, but bounced back from it to play his best down the stretch with the pressure squarely on him... Now has total knowledge of the Tar Heel offense... Has excellent field presence and commands the respect of the other players... Also has good awareness on the field... A very poised quarterback... Has improved his throwing ability in the past year... Always has had a good arm, but now it's stronger... Also runs well... Good scrambler who can manufacture offense when things break down... Has great work habits... Works as hard in the weight room as he does on the practice field... Did an excellent job last spring... Completed 24 of 4 passes for 256 yards and three touchdowns in a Charlotte scrim mage... Hit on 22 of 36 passes for 250 yards and two touchdowns the spring game... Worked just as hard with the starting job alrea won as he did the previous spring when trying to win it... An inten competitor... A student of the game who wants to be a good player Now with a year of experience behind him, he has all the tools contend for All-ACC honors... A very intelligent person... Named the ACC All-Academic Football Team last year... Selected to Phi Be Kappa last spring.

Georgia 4-A Player of the Year at Lakeside High School in 1981 Quarterbacked his team to an 11-1 record and a spot in the region finals... Completed 73 of 133 passes that year for 1,254 yards and 1 touchdowns... Rushed for 191 yards and scored seven times himself. Had one game in which he completed nine of 10 passes for 249 yard and three TDs... All-county and all-state selection... Finalist for th Atlanta Touchdown Club Back-of-the-Year Award... Voted Lakeside most outstanding student-athlete and most outstanding senior. MVP in both baseball and football... Won two letters in football an basketball, three in baseball and one in track... Member of the Natior al Honor Society... Grade point average was 3.97 out of a possibl 4.0... Majoring in economics... Born May 1, 1964.

Carlton Bailey

Defensive Guard
6-2, 235, Sophomore
Baltimore, Md.

Saw considerable action in the defensive interior last fall... A starter at times... Had 27 solo tackles and 22 assists... Did a good job as he became more experienced... Biggest asset is his quickness... Moves very well and is tough to block one on one... Also has good speed... That allowed him to be used on special teams last fall... A hard worker who has gained weight in the past year... Was out of school last spring and thus will be behind when practice resumes in the fall... Listed behind Dennis Barron and Chris Jacobs at guard... Came to Carolina in the fall of 1983, but was red-shirted... Worked at linebacker that fall, but was shifted to the defensive line the following spring... An all-county and all-metro tackle at Woodlawn High School... Played on a Class AA championship team there... Captain of his track team... Set the Baltimore County record in the 330-yard high hurdles, winning All-America honors in that event... Undecided on a college major... Born December 15, 1964.

Walter Bailey

Defensive Back
6-1, 201, Junior
Hampton, Va.

A question mark heading into the fall because of a knee injury sustained last year... Missed all of spring practice while rehabilitating his knee... However, if he's fully recovered, he will challenge for a starting spot at the ram position, one of Carolina's two strong safety slots... Has much more experience than anyone else on the depth chart at that spot... Started at right cornerback last year and did a good job... Also saw some action at strong safety in certain defensive schemes... Was really beginning to show signs of developing into a top-flight defensive back when he was injured in the seventh game of the year at Memphis State... Made 29 solo tackles and assisted on 20 others... Also broke up four passes in the secondary and recovered a fumble... Played a fine game at Clemson with eight solo tackles and four assists... Recovered a fumble which set up a touchdown against Kansas... Also returned 14 punts for 76 yards and a 5.4 average... A red-shirt freshman in 1982, he played in a reserve role in 1983... Saw a great deal of action late that season, especially in passing situations... Made one of the biggest plays of the year in the finale against Duke with a fumble-causing tackle in the fourth quarter... Carolina recovered and moved for the winning touchdown in a 34-27 victory... A good all-around football player... Reacts well and has good instincts... An enthusiastic player and a good hitter... Tough and aggressive... An excellent competitor... Understands the game well... Has the size, speed and quickness needed at this strong safety position... Although he missed a lot of work in the spring, his game experience can help him overcome that if he's 100 percent physically... Was a three-year regular as a defensive back and running back at Bethel High School... Rushed for 1,062 yards as a senior... Had 33 career interceptions, including 12 in his senior season... Led the Peninsula District in scoring with 78 points... Named to the Parade All-America team as an offensive back and to the National High School Coaches Association All-America squad as a safety... Selected one of 1981's top five high school players in Virginia by the ROANOKE TIMES... Also lettered in track at Bethel... A recreation major... Born October 31, 1963.

Tommy Barnhardt

Punter
6-3, 208, Senior
China Grove, N.C.

Finest punter in the Atlantic Coast Conference... Averaged 43.6 yards a kick on 52 punts a year ago... That's the fifth-best single-season average in Tar Heel history... After punting just three times for a 37.0 average in the season opener against Navy, he averaged 44.0 yards a kick the rest of the season... Finished third in the ACC in punting, but would have been higher except for that first game... Missed the Memphis State game because of an illness... Best single-game average of the year was 47.8 on four punts against Georgia Tech... Averaged 46.3 against N.C. State and 45.8 at Wake Forest... Longest punt of the year was a 59-yarder against Virginia... Had punted 36 times for a 39.6 average in 1983... Had the longest punt of his career that season against Clemson— a 68-yarder... Finished fourth in the league in punting that year... Averaged 48.0 yards on three punts against Clemson, the top single-game performance of his career... Did an excellent job in the Peach Bowl with a 45.2 average on six kicks against Florida State... On 56 of his career 88 punts, opponents have gotten the ball inside their own 30-yard lines... Transferred to Carolina in the spring of 1982 from East Carolina... Had been the Pirate punter as a freshman in 1981... Averaged 37.5 yards that season on 59 punts... His longest punt of the year, a 58-yarder, came against Carolina in his second collegiate game... Averaged 42.9 on nine punts that day... Has a career average of 41.9 yards a punt in his two years at Carolina, the fourth-highest career mark in school history... Only three stars from the 1940's have ever had better career averages—Harry Dunkle, Mike Cooke and Charlie Justice...Barnhardt is an excellent all-around athlete... Has tremendous work habits and has set a good example for other Carolina kicking specialists... Played quarterback at South Rowan High... Majoring in industrial relations... Born June 11, 1963.

Dennis Barron

Defensive Guard
6-3, 275, Junior
Wilson, N.C.

Has all the tools to be an all-conference player... Possesses excellent size and strength... Also has unusual speed and quickness for a man of his size... Did an outstanding job in spring practice... Won the starting job at guard... Became a more physical player in the spring... Also worked to become more of a leader... Has improved his pass rush and his run techniques in the past year... The most experienced of all the Tar Heel defensive linemen... Has a nose for the football and a good awareness of what's happening on the field at all times... A starter most of last season... Split playing time with Carlton Bailey... Made 29 solo tackles and assisted on 18 others... Played a fine game against N.C. State with six tackles and three assists... Also got in on seven other hits that day... Had five solo tackles at Duke, including one for a big eight-yard loss... Had seen considerable action in a reserve role in 1983... Played quite a bit in passing situations that year and responded by forcing six hurried throws... Was red-shirted as a freshman in 1982... Won Parade All-America honors at Beddingfield High... Played defensive tackle, linebacker and tight end there... Three times an all-area selection... Twice an All-East and all-conference choice... Associated Press and GREENSBORO DAILY NEWS all-state pick as a senior... Named one of the top five players in the state by the ROANOKE TIMES... Won three letters in football and two in track... Selected for the East-West All-Star Game... Competed in track at Carolina during the past indoor season... Finished second in the shot put at both the George Mason Invitational and the ACC Indoor Invitational... Majoring in recreation... Born December 31, 1963.

Harris Barton

Offensive Tackle
6-4, 268, Junior
Atlanta, Ga.

A premier offensive lineman... One of Carolina's top all-star candidates... Started every game at center in 1983 as a red-shirt freshman... Had never snapped a ball in a game until then, but did an excellent job... Played very well against some of the best nose guards in the South... Slowed by an ankle injury early last year... Then was shifted to left tackle at mid-season after an injury to Pat Sheehan... Remained there for the remainder of the fall and played very well... His excellent play coincided with a fine finish by Carolina in which the Tar Heels lost just one of their last six games after opening the season with a 1-4 mark... With more defenses using even-man fronts, Carolina coaches felt Barton's skills could be better used at tackle and he was left there in spring practice... A great pass blocker, he handles the key left tackle blocking spot in Carolina's passing attack... Did a great job in spring practice, winning the Shelton Robinson Award as the best all-around blocker in the off-season work... Did a good job in 1984, but should be even better this fall after working at tackle all spring... A highly-motivated and goal-oriented person... Has tremendous inner drive... Tough mentally and physically... Owns the perfect temperament for an offensive lineman... Has outstanding work habits... Takes pride in his play... Plays hard and practices hard... Comes to play every down... Fundamentally sound... Has excellent size and is one of the team's strongest players... Possesses great speed and quickness for man of his size... Very mobile... Alert on the field... Already a team leader... A big-league player in every way... Would have been the ACC's best center last year, now has a chance to be its best tackle... Played offensive and defensive tackle at Dunwoody High School... All-county, all-metro and all-state as a senior... Named his team's most valuable player that season... Won three letters in football, one in basketball and one in wrestling... A fine student who is majoring in business administration... Takes his studies seriously and his football, too... Born April 19, 1964.

Tar Heel Tidbits

John Swofford is the sixth athletic director in University of North Carolina history. Swofford, a Morehead Scholar and former Tar Heel football player, took the athletic director's job in May, 1980.

Swofford's predecessors were Bob Fetzer (1922- June, 1952); Chuck Erickson (June, 1952- May, 1968); Walter Rabb, who served on an interim basis from May, 1968 to January, 1969; Homer Rice (January, 1969- January, 1976); and Bill Cobey (February, 1976- April, 1980).

34

Norman Becton

Fullback
6-1, 215, Sophomore
Cove City, N.C.

Heads into the fall as the backup fullback... Expected to compe with Brad Lopp for the starting spot in pre-season drills... Strong a tough... A good blocker who has the ability to run with the football Has good speed... Was his team's leading rusher in the spring gan with 29 yards on five carries... Red-shirted as a freshman in 1983 a then was out of school last fall... Returned to Carolina in the sprin but missed some practice sessions with a pulled hamstring... Thu lacks experience and playing time... When he gets that, he's capable being a very good player... A tailback and linebacker at West Crave High... Ran for 1,716 yards as a senior and finished with a career tot of over 4,500 yards rushing... Conference player of the year for thr straight seasons... 9

Lee Gliarmis

Kicking Specialist
5-10, 174, Junior
Wilson, N.C.

Got limited playing time last season after a hot start by Kenny Miller... Made four of five PATs and missed his only field goal attempt... Still an important part of the Carolina offense, however... Did a fine job in spring practice and is expected to handle the PAT and shorter field goal duties this fall... Kicked field goals of 30, 42 and 30 yards in Carolina's two game-like spring scrimmages... Two Gliarmis field goals accounted for all of the Whites' scoring in the spring game... A conventional kicker with a very good leg... A student of the game... A believer in fundamentals and techniques and constantly works on them... Has gotten stronger through work in the weight room and that has helped his range... Accurate up to about 48 or 49 yards... Gets the ball up in a hurry... Offers consistency to the Carolina kicking game... Good all-around athlete who is one of the team leaders... Came to Carolina in 1982, but was red-shirted... Then saw action in just one game in 1983, playing behind record-setting Brooks Barwick... Did convert a 37-yard field goal attempt that season against William & Mary... Parade All-America kicker at Fike High School... Kicked 27 career field goals there, including eight which covered 40 yards or more... Career best was 49 yards... A reserve at fullback... Non-scholarship player who has a great attitude about the game... One of the team's strongest players... Has built himself up with hard work in the weight room... Played fullback and linebacker at Scotland County High School... One of his teammates there was current Tar Heel teammate Moses Watson... An all-conference wrestler at Scotland... Was runner-up in teen-age national power-lifting contest... A biology major... Wants to be a doctor... Born August 3, 1964.

Tar Heel Tidbits

Former Carolina tailback Kelvin Bryant was selected the Most Valuable Player in the USFL championship game earlier in the summer. Bryant ran for over 100 yards in leading the Baltimore Stars to their second straight USFL championship. Bryant, a three-time all-pro selection, was the USFL Player of the Year in 1983.

Larry Griffin
Defensive Back
6-1, 197, Senior
Chesapeake, Va.

A major surprise in spring practice... After working at wide receiver for four years, moved to the secondary last spring... Made the transition with incredible ease... Now rates as one of Carolina's top all-star candidates... Coaches feel he could be one of the best defensive backs in college football... Move to defense was made because coaches felt another athlete with great ability was needed in the secondary... Griffin was approached in the off-season about making the switch and agreed to do so even though he only has one year of eligibility left... Was sensational in the spring, winning a starting spot at right cornerback... His great attitude had a lot to do with how quickly he adapted to his new position... So did his experience as a receiver... Has exceptional quickness... Also has good speed and moves his feet well... Has fine reactions and good instincts... Seems like a natural at cornerback... Doesn't have game experience in the secondary, but has everything else... Should be a big boost to the Tar Heel defense... A hard worker... Showed great leadership in the spring through his unselfishness and the way he went about establishing himself on defense... Voted the most improved defensive player in the spring work.

Originally came to Carolina in 1981 as a quarterback... But, asked to be moved to wide receiver in pre-season practice before his freshman season... Did an excellent job at flanker... Although hampered by nagging injuries the last half of the year, finished with 10 catches... Had touchdown receptions against Miami, Wake Forest and South Carolina... Griffin and Ethan Horton were voted the team's top freshman players... Tore muscles in a knee in pre-season practice and missed the entire 1982 season... Came back to make 16 catches in 1983, scoring against William and Mary, Miami, Georgia Tech and Maryland... Had 12 receptions last season... Finished his career on offense with 38 catches for 567 yards (14.9 per catch) and seven touchdowns... Was an All-Eastern Region, all-city, all-district and all-metro quarterback at Great Bridge High School... Threw for 18 touchdowns there and scored 10 as a two-year starter... Played on two district championship teams... Won two letters in football, basketball and baseball... Good student who is majoring in industrial relations... Born January 11, 1963.

Darrell Hamilton
Offensive Tackle
6-7, 290, Freshman
Washington, D.C.

Listed number two on the depth chart at right tackle, but has the ability to push for a starting berth... Red-shirted last fall and thus lacks game experience... A very good prospect... Has excellent size... An exceptional athlete... Came on at the end of spring practice and played very well... Being counted on to play this fall... Needs some success and the confidence that will come with it... Has outstanding potential, but must continue to improve... Played both offensive and defensive tackle at Anacostia High School... Was a member of East Interhigh championship teams and one city championship te there... All-Interhigh and all-metro selection... Three-year letterm in football and basketball... Enrolled in the General College at Car na... Born May 11, 1965.

90

Tripp Hardy
Tight End
6-0, 207, Sophomore
Roswell, Ga.

A solid backup at tight end... Non-scholarship player who doe nice job of catching the ball... Got experience last year in sho yardage situations, playing tight end and wingback... Only had c catch, an eight-yard reception at Boston College... Doesn't have gr size, but is an aggressive player... Greatest asset may be his inte gence... Smart player who is capable of playing in several differe spots in different formations... That versatility should help him more playing time this fall... Red-shirted as a freshman in 198 Linebacker and tight end at Milton High School... An all-county a all-region performer... Majoring in economics... Born April 9, 19

89

Damon Hueston
Tight End
6-6, 221, Freshman
Toledo, Ohio

Another important reserve at tight end... Cracked a wrist during red-shirt season last fall and had to wear a protective device duri the spring... That cast-like device hampered him at times... Howev went through all the drills and was very impressive... A very skill athlete... Fastest of all the Tar Heel tight ends... A great pass rece er... Had seven catches in a Charlotte scrimmage for 53 yards Scored in that game on a 17-yard pass from Kevin Anthony... Dic good job of picking up the offense... Smart and has the ability to ma adjustments on the run... An aggressive blocker, but needs additior weight to be more effective... Was City League Player of the Year Macomber-Whitney Tech in 1983... Also division and district player the year... Tight end, defensive tackle and punter... All-divisio all-city, all-district and all-state... Selected to play in Ohio's Nort South All-Star Game... Enrolled in t General College at Carolina... Born January 20, 1966.

William Humes
Tailback
6-0, 190, Junior
Asheville, N.C.

Key figure in the Tar Heel attack... Top candidate to replace Ethan Horton, the Atlantic Coast Conference rushing leader each of the past two seasons, as the Carolina tailback... Ended spring practice in the starting role ahead of red-shirt freshman Brad Sullivan... Was Horton's top backup last year... Has shown flashes of brilliance in his first two seasons at Carolina, but has been sidelined at times each year with injuries... Rushed for 302 yards last season on 60 carries, averaging 5.0 yards a play... Best performance came in a starting role against N.C. State... Carried 27 times for 156 yards that day and scored three touchdowns... Also caught a two-point conversion pass from Kevin Anthony in a 28-21 victory... Scored on runs of five, three and two yards... With the Tar Heels trailing 21-20 in the last six minutes, Humes keyed a 74-yard touchdown drive... Carried the ball eight times in the 13-play drive, gaining 42 yards... Scored the winning touchdown with only 31 seconds left in the game on a two-yard dive... Named ACC Offensive Back of the Week for his performance in that game... His 20 points that day were the most ever scored by a Carolina sophomore in one game... However, suffered a sprained ankle the following week at Memphis State and missed three straight games... Returned to play in the season finale at Duke, but carried the ball only twice... Other top rushing game was 66 yards against Kansas... As a freshman, was the Tar Heels' fourth-leading rusher with 254 yards... Played behind Horton and Tyrone Anthony that year... Saw action in the first six games, but suffered a knee injury against Wake Forest and missed the rest of the season... Underwent arthroscopic surgery which was completely successful... Top performance of 1983 was a 161-yard effort against Miami on 26 carries... Had a 42-yard run in that game, the longest of his career.

Possesses all the tools to be an outstanding back... Has good speed and great instincts... Reads blocks well... A smooth and deceptive runner... Improved in all phases of play during spring practice... Did an especially good job of improving his blocking... Seemed to be a tougher player in the spring than in the past... Fine competitor and a very good pass receiver... Caught eight passes in Carolina's two game-like scrimmages in the spring, one for 24 yards and a touchdown... Two-time high school All-America... Named to the Centenary team as a junior and to the team picked by the National High School Coaches Association as a senior... Tailback, linebacker and defensive back at Clyde A. Erwin High School... All-conference and all-county as a junior and senior and all-state in his final year... Voted Western North Carolina's Back of the Year in 1982... Played in the Shrine Bowl and the East-West All-Star Game... Rushed for 1,682 yards as a junior and scored 26 touchdowns... Added six more TDs in the state playoffs as his team finished state 3-A runner-up... Gained 1,532 yards and scored 33 times as a senior... Had three-year totals of 4,124 yards rushing, 75 touchdowns and 19 interceptions... Won three letters in football, four in baseball and two each in track and basketball... Two-time all-conference baseball player... Competed in baseball at the 1983 National Sports Festival... His father, William, competed in football, baseball and track at Miles College in Alabama and then played in the Chicago Cubs' system for a while... Majoring in business... Born March 8, 1965.

Dave Hunter
Punter
6-0, 194, Freshman
Mendham, N.J.

Number two punter behind Tommy Barnhardt... Has a strong leg... Has improved his techniques in his time at Carolina... Work habits have also gotten better... Has benefitted from being around Barnhardt... Needs to become more consistent... Punted nine times in a Charlotte scrimmage for a 36.9 average... Averaged 36.0 on eight kicks in the spring game, including a 49-yarder... Played tight end and middle linebacker and also handled the place-kicking and punting at West Morris Mendham High School... Lettered four times... All-conference punter as a senior with a 41.6 average... Made three of five field goals and 15 of 19 PATs... His team won conference championships with 8-1 records in 1982 and 1983... Also lettered in baseball... His father was a varsity tennis player at Syracuse in the 1950's... Has a brother, John, who was a boxer while attending the University of California at Santa Cruz... Was tri-state (New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania) punt, pass and kick champion at age 13... Enrolled in Carolina's General College... Born April 5, 1966.

Chris Jackson
Linebacker
5-10, 205, Junior
Whiteville, N.C.

Non-scholarship player who came out on his own last fall... A willing worker... Played almost every position on the scout team... Made some improvement in the spring... Still lacks the experience of the players ahead of him... Also needs to improve his consistency.

Tar Heel Tidbits

Carolina is scheduled to appear on regional television six times during the 1985 season. Those TV games will be against Navy, Georgia Tech, N.C. State, Maryland, Clemson and Duke. The Navy game will kick off at 7:30 p.m. with the others starting at 12:15 p.m.

The Tar Heels' home opener against LSU will be sent back to Louisiana and shown on a pay-per-view basis there.

In addition, CBS Sports could show other Carolina games on a national basis during the season.

79

Chris Jacobs

Defensive Guard
6-5, 240, Freshman
Mocksville, N.C.

Good young prospect... Goes into the fall as the number two defensive guard... Playing behind an outstanding player there in Dennis Barron... Should provide solid backup help... Did a good job in spring practice after being red-shirted last year... Has good strength and quickness... Tough and competitive... Just needs experience and should get that this fall... Has a bright future... Was voted the most enthusiastic player on defense in the spring... Defensive tackle and place-kicker at Davie County High School... Had 118 tackles as a senior, including seven quarterback sacks... Kicked three field goals and 18 PATs... Started in the Shrine Bowl... Also selected to play in the East-West All-Star Game... 24

Darryl Johnson

Defensive Back
5-11, 187, Senior
Charlotte, N.C.

After playing every position in the secondary in his first three years settled in at free safety last spring... With returning starter Tir Morrison out of the spring work with a broken arm, Johnson got a lo of practice time... Took advantage of that opportunity and won th starting job... Listed ahead of Morrison on the pre-season deptl chart... Would have pressed for that job, anyway... A fine athlete witl a great attitude... Simply had a super spring... Had two pass intercep tions in a scrimmage in Charlotte and then had another interceptio in the spring game... A walk-on who has proven he can play colleg football... Has been given a scholarship... Tough and smart... Has good understanding of defensive concepts... Unselfish and conscien tious... Played a good bit last year... Had 16 tackles and nine assists.. 32

Eric Lewis
Wide Receiver
5-9, 175, Sophomore
New Bern, N.C.

Pleasant surprise at the end of last season... Caught 11 passes, a Carolina record for a freshman, for 97 yards and one touchdown... Made all of those catches in the final four games of the year... Had five receptions against Georgia Tech alone, equalling school mark for single-game catches by a freshman... Also scored in that game on a five-yard pass from Kevin Anthony... Was used as a role player in a three wide-receiver attack... Handled that job well... Had five receptions in a Charlotte scrimmage during the spring and then added two more catches in the spring game... Goes into the new season as one of the top backups at flanker... Will also see action again in the three wide-receiver alignment... Has good ability... Elusive as a receiver... Also a good runner after catching the ball... An aggressive, but young player who's still bothered by inconsistency at times... However, is working to improve that... Also used on occasion early last year as a kickoff return man... Had 12 returns for 195 yards, an average of 16.3... Had Carolina's longest return of the season, a 26-yarder at Boston College... Red-shirted in 1983... Tar Heel Talking

Carolina is on the verge of joining a select group of schools which have posted 500 football victories.

The Tar Heels entered the 1985 season with an all-time record of 497-346-52. Only 18 other schools have 500 wins. Georgia Tech, like Carolina, is on the brink of hitting that figure. The Yellow Jackets began the season with 499 victories.

No other Atlantic Coast Conference team has 500 victories.

Brad Lopp

Fullback
6-1, 208, Sophomore
Jefferson, N.C.

Ended spring practice as the starting fullback... Has the potential to be an outstanding player at this position and one of the better backs in the Atlantic Coast Conference... Has excellent speed for a fullback... Enjoys blocking... However, needs additional weight to be more effective at it... Became more confident as a runner during spring practice... Has exceptional running ability... Has good leg drive and acceleration... Also a fine receiver... A hard worker who loves the game... Unselfish and team-oriented... Saw action last season as the number two fullback... However, still needs more game experience... Had 32 carries last fall for 149 yards... Also caught three passes for 42 yards... Had been red-shirted in 1983... Blue Ridge Conference Player of the Year as a senior at Ashe Central High... Also named Ashe County Player of the Year... A quarterback as a sophomore, he played running back and defensive back as a junior and senior... Also punted and kicked off... Rushed for 1,530 yards and scored 28 touchdowns in his senior year... Scored more TDs than any other 2-A player in the state... Intercepted six passes for a conference championship team... Associated Press and GREENSBORO DAILY NEWS all-state selection... Played in the Shrine Bowl... Two-time all-conference choice in football, basketball and track... Also lettered in baseball... His grandfather was a four-sport star at Duke in the 1920's... Two uncles played baseball at Carolina in the '30's and another, Billy Myers, played football here in the '40's... His father, William, played freshman football at Carolina in 1958... An English major... Born December 18, 1964.

Kenny Miller

Wide Receiver/Kicking Specialist
6-2, 202, Sophomore
Phoenix, Md.

Came from nowhere to lead the Tar Heels in scoring last year with 66 points... Made 16 of 18 field goal attempts and 18 of 19 extra points... Became the regular place-kicker in the third game of the year after two others had lost that job... Had been playing at wide receiver and doing very little kicking in practice prior to the switch... Booted an Atlantic Coast Conference record 15 consecutive field goals, the first 15 he attempted... Finally missed twice in the Duke game from 31 and later 50 yards... Had a field goal accuracy mark of 88.9, a school single-season record... Finished 13th nationally in field goals, sixth among players returning for 1985... Longest field goal of the year was a 44-yarder at Memphis State... Had three field goals in that game and also three against Maryland... Those three field goals set a school record for most in a game by a freshman and he also set a single-season freshman field goal mark... Was sixth in the ACC in scoring... Also handled kickoff duties... Still needs to improve his work habits as a kicker... Capable of being about as good as he wants to be... But, needs more consistency and better techniques... Plans call for him to handle long field goals and kickoffs this fall with Lee Gliarmis doing the other kicking... A backup at flanker... His playing time as a wide receiver was restricted last year because of a series of injuries... Coaches hope he will be able to provide quality depth there this fall... A good all-around athlete... Has worked at quarterback, tailback and wide receiver in his two years at Carolina... Red-shirted in 1983... Played on the top-ranked high school team in Maryland as both a junior and senior... Helped lead Calvert Hall to a two-year record of 20-2... Quarterback as a junior and first three games of his senior season... Moved to wide receiver after that... Averaged four catches a game as a senior... Kicked a 43-yard field goal to beat Gilman, 16-13, and give Calvert a tie for the Maryland Scholastic Association championship... Also had a 48-yard field goal against Poly... Named to the Maryland Scholastic All-Star Team... All-state selection... Also lettered in baseball and golf... Undecided on a college major... Born May 2, 1964.

Tar Heel Tidbits

In just seven seasons at Carolina, Dick Crum is already the third-winningest coach in school history. Crum entered the 1985 season with a record of 55-25-2 as the Tar Heels' head man.

Still ahead of Crum are Bill Dooley, who was 69-53-2 in 11 years in Chapel Hill, and Carl Snavely, who had a 59-35-5 record in 10 Tar Heel seasons.

33

Richy Milligan

Defensive Back
6-0, 189, Junior
Fayetteville, N.C.

Switched from quarterback to the secondary during spring practice... A reserve at the ram position... Seems to have a defensive temperament... A hard worker... Has a great attitude... Intelligent player who did a good job in spring practice... Returned an interception 28 yards for a touchdown in a spring scrimmage in Charlotte... Non-scholarship player who is expected to contribute on special teams this fall... Quarterbacked Pine Forest High School to the state eastern championship as a senior... Won all-city and all-county honors... Voted his team's top offensive performer... A history major... Born August 15, 1965.

28

Tim Morrison

Defensive Back
6-1, 187, Senior
Fayetteville, N.C.

Starter at free safety last fall... Made good improvement as the season progressed... Has always had the ability to be an outstanding player and finally demonstrated that... However, only practiced twice in the spring before breaking an arm... Missed the rest of the off-season drills... With Morrison out of action, Darryl Johnson moved into the lineup and had a great spring... Morrison goes into the fall behind Johnson on the depth chart at this position... With hard work, could contend for his old job... Has great natural talent... Excellent speed and great range make him capable of making plays all over the field... Tough and a sure tackler... Carolina's fifth-leading tackler last year... Was in on 91 total hits, including 58 solos and 26 assists... Broke up nine passes in the secondary and intercepted three others... Intercepted a pass against N.C. State on the first play of the second half to set up a Carolina touchdown... Intercepted another pass the following week at Memphis State and also made 10 solo tackles, assisted on two others and caused a fumble... Had nine tackles and six assists against Georgia Tech and four solos and five assists against Virginia... Also had a tackle for a loss against the Cavaliers and knocked down four passes... Intercepted a pass to end Duke's final possession in the closing moments of a 17-15 Tar Heel victory... Prior to last season had seen action as a reserve cornerback and as a nickle back in passing situations... Originally was a wide receiver here as a freshman in 1982... Was moved to defense after injuries cut down three cornerbacks... Was occasionally used as a punt return man that season... Averaged 8.4 yards on nine returns... Had a 23-yard return to set up a touchdown at Clemson... Had been a fine return specialist at Terry Sanford High School... Played split end and wingback there... Caught 43 passes as a senior for 955 yards (22.2 yards a catch) and eight touchdowns... Led his team to a 13-1 record and a spot in the state 4-A championship game... Although his team lost that title game, 27-14, he scored both TDs on a 69-yard punt return and an 18-yard catch... All-conference selection as a junior and senior and led the league in receiving both years... All-East and all-state choice... Played in the Shrine Bowl... Lettered twice in football and track an once in basketball and baseball... Majoring in recreation... Born Apr 3, 1963.

Born March 30, 1965.

Tom Osborne

Defensive Back
5-11, 181, Sophomore
Fort Polk, La.

Finished spring practice as a backup at free safety... Got a lot of work in the off-season drills and did a good job... Got some playing time last fall and that experience will be helpful... Also played on special teams in 1984 and could help there again this season... Has a lot of potential... Has good, quick feet and excellent speed... Intelligent and has a great attitude... A hard worker who wants to excel... Intense and competitive... Was red-shirted in 1983... Came to Carolina from Robinson Secondary School in Virginia... Won four football letters in high school and six in track... Played running back and defensive back and also returned kicks... Had three interceptions as a senior, including one for a 65-yard touchdown... Returned a punt 55 yards for another TD... All-district selection... Born in Germany... His father is an officer in the armed forces... Excellent student who is majoring in biology... Wants to go to medical school... Born September 28, 1965.

53

Daryl Parham
Offensive Tackle
6-7, 255, Sophomore
Lynchburg, Va.

Got playing time at outside linebacker last fall, but was shifted to offense early in spring practice... Learned the system and adapted to offense very quickly... Won the starting job at right tackle... An excellent, all-around athlete... His great athletic ability helped him make the position change more easily than had been expected... Improved every day in the spring... Intense and plays hard... A great competitor... Still learning the position... Is going to get better and better as he gains experience... Already an excellent pass blocker... Has outstanding speed and agility... Needs to add some weight... A team player with a great attitude... Has a great future in the offensive line... Red-shirted in 1983 and then split time at outside linebacker last year... Had 13 solo tackles, five assists and one sack... Came to Carolina from Heritage High School... Played defensive end, tight end and offensive tackle there... Named to the ROANOKE TIMES' Top Five in Virginia... All-district selection in both football and basketball... Turned down basketball scholarship offers to accept his football grant at Carolina... 1983 Virginia state champion in the discus... Finished second in the shot put competition and also ran the 300-meter hurdles... Threw the discus last spring for Carolina's track team... An industrial relations major... Born July 2, 1965.

52

Ralph Phifer

54

Brett Rudolph

Linebacker
6-2, 228, Sophomore
Chagrin Falls, Ohio

A reserve a year ago, Rudolph won a starting position during spring practice... With returning starter Troy Simmons out of action a great deal with injuries, Rudolph got a lot of work in the spring... Took advantage of that opportunity and heads into the fall as the starter... Figures to be challenged for that spot by Simmons, but has the ability to keep it... Did a very good job in spring practice... Intelligent and has good instincts... Will make directional calls on the line of scrimmage... Loves to work in the weight room and is the team's strongest linebacker... Also ranks with Carl Carr as Carolina's fastest linebackers... A physical and aggressive player... Saw considerable action a year ago at linebacker and on special teams... A lot is expected of him this fall... Won the starting split end job in the spring of 1984 and had a good season last fall... A very consistent receiver... Had 21 catches for 339 yards and four touchdowns... Averaged 16.1 yards a reception... Touchdowns covered 31 yards against Navy, 37 against Kansas, nine against Maryland and five against Virginia... Had a season personal-high five catches for 77 yards in that game against the Cavaliers... Also threw a 40-yard touchdown pass to Kevin Anthony that day on a reverse... Had four carries during the season for 51 yards (12.8)... Saw limited action in a reserve role in 1983 after being red-shirted in 1982... A craftsman at split end... Quick and elusive off the line of scrimmage... Very coachable... Has great self-confidence... Has shown he can make the big play in the clutch... Considering his size, has good toughness as a blocker... A series of hamstring problems limited his work in spring practice... Has a great personality and is one of the team's most popular players... Led Sylva-Webster High to the class 2-A state championship in 1980 and to the Division II playoffs as a senior in 1981... Played quarterback and defensive back, punted and returned kicks... In his last two years there, he completed 106 passes for 2,036 yards and 20 touchdowns and averaged 5.5 yards a rush... Named North Carolina's most outstanding 2-A athlete as a senior... Associated Press all-state selection and Centenary All-America... Played in the Shrine Bowl... Won three letters in football and basketball and four in track and baseball... His brother, Steve, was an All-Atlantic Coast Conference defensive back and punter at Carolina in 1980... Had another brother, Jimmy, who played quarterback at Tennessee from 1976 to 1979... Brad Sullivan

Tailback
5-11, 194, Freshman
Durham, N.C.

Emerged as the number two tailback during spring practice... Now rates as a key figure in the Carolina offense after a red-shirt freshman season... Has tremendous speed and quickness... Fastest player on the team... Gives the Tar Heels a true breakaway threat... A hard, but deceptive runner... Very good at slipping and breaking tackles... Has a lot of determination... Quite coachable... His blocking, and the toughness that goes with it, improved in the spring... Needs to do a better job of protecting the ball... Also much continue improvement as a receiver... Lacks experience... Can be a great player when he acquires that... Will play a lot this year and could push William Humes for the starting job... Two-year starter at tailback for Hillside High School, rushing for over 1,500 yards... Averaged just under eight yards a carry as a senior... Team MVP... Had one game in which he gained 178 yards on only 16 carries and another in which he ran 11 times for 135 yards... Twice an all-conference and all-area selection... Won three letters in football and four in track... Was fifth nationally in the 100 meters at Junior Olympic competition in 1983... Chosen Durham's most outstanding male athlete by the Durham Sports Club after his final year at Hillside... Senior class president there... His brother, Dwight, was a fullback at N.C. State from 1977 to 1981... His father ran track at Alcorn A&M... Brad was part of the Carolina track team last year... Qualified for the 55 meters at the NCAA Indoor Championships... Ran a 6.28 in the 60-yard dash, second-fastest time in school history... Studying in the General College at Carolina... Born July 22, 1966.

Wes Sweetser

Quarterback
6-3, 210, Senior
Camp Lejeune, N.C.

Goes into fall practice as the backup quarterback... Came to Carolina as a walk-on, but was given a full scholarship prior to spring practice... Did a fine job in the off-season work to move into the top reserve spot behind Kevin Anthony... Because of injuries to Mark Maye, got a lot of repetitions and work with the top offensive unit last fall... That experience has been a big help... Got into the Maryland game last year and completed two of three passes for 25 yards... One of those completions was a nine-yard touchdown toss to Eric Streater... Intelligent player who has a good grasp of the offense... Has grown into his role through hard work... Fine competitor and a very capable player... Passing has become more consistent in the last year... Throws with more velocity... In fact, all phases of his passing game were improved in the spring... Completed five of 13 passes for 40 yards with one interception in a spring scrimmage in Charlotte... Then was 17 for 33 in the spring game for 159 yards with one interception... A lot is expected from him during the 1985 season... Onslow County Athlete of the Year as a senior at Camp Lejeune High School... Won all-conference and all-county honors at quarterback as a junior and senior... Also all-conference and all-county in basketball and baseball as a senior... Majoring in business administration... Born March 17, 1964.

40

James Thompson

Fullback
5-11, 225, Freshman
Lumberton, N.C.

Suffered a knee injury last fall and missed all of spring practice... Has good ability, but is hard to evaluate because he has missed so much practice time... Gained 1,056 yards, averaging 8.4 yards a carry, as a senior at Lumberton High School in 1983... Played his first three years at South Robeson High... Was all-conference at South Robeson as a junior and at Lumberton as a senior... All-East 4-A selection... Named to the RALEIGH TIMES' Top 25 in North Carolina... Chosen for the Shrine Bowl and the East-West All-Star Game... Listed in America's Outstanding Names and Faces... Enrolled in the General College at Carolina... Born December 5, 1965.

Tar Heel Tidbits

When Ethan Horton led the Atlantic Coast Conference in rushing last fall, it marked the second straight season in which he had topped the league's ground-gainers.

Horton ran for 1,247 yards to finish ahead of Georgia Tech's Robert Lavette in the rushing race. Lavette was the only other ACC back to hit the magical 1,000-yard figure with a total of 1,189 yards.

Horton finished eighth nationally in rushing despite gaining just 12 yards at Duke in the season finale after spraining an ankle prior to the game.

The first running back chosen in last spring's NFL draft, Horton had led the ACC rushers in 1983 with 1,107 yards.

Dave Truitt

Tight End
6-4, 228, Junior
Gaithersburg, Md.

Listed behind All-America candidate Arnold Franklin at tight end... Would start for most teams in the country... Not really considered a backup by Tar Heel coaches because he is going to get a great deal of playing time... A natural, gifted receiver... Has excellent speed for a tight end... It's that speed which allows Carolina to have flexibility in formations with him in the lineup... A lot of different offensive sets will be used simply to get him more playing time... A very important part of the Tar Heels' offensive plans... Saw only spot action as a freshman in 1982... Then was the team's third-leading receiver in 1983 with 18 catches... That included an eight-yard touchdown reception against William and Mary... Had a career-high five catches against Memphis State... Suffered a knee injury early last season and was unable to return to action... Got a hardship ruling and an extra year of eligibility... Came back from that injury and played well in the spring... Was bothered by a hip pointer, but didn't let that sideline him... Had five catches in Carolina's two game-like scrimmages... Has gotten stronger which has helped his blocking... Played tight end and defensive tackle at Gaithersburg High School... All-metro, all-county and all-league... Won two letters in football and one each in basketball, baseball and track... His brother, Steve, was the starting center at Wake Forest in 1980 and 1981... Majoring in industrial relations... Born February 18, 1964.

Donnie Wallace

Defensive Tackle
6-3, 260, Sophomore
Everetts, N.C.

Fine athlete who has all the tools to be an outstanding player... Saw considerable action last fall at nose guard and tackle... Started on a couple of occasions... Had a good spring... Ended the off-season work behind Reuben Davis at tackle... Played a couple of different positions during the spring work and that versatility will help in the fall... Could push for a starting spot at end or tackle... Really came on at the end of the spring drills... Has good size and has increased his strength in the last year... Extremely quick... Has the ability to play outside because he runs so well... Red-shirted as an offensive lineman in 1983 and was moved to defense the following spring... Was a two-way player at Roanoke High School... Parade and Adidas All-America as an offensive guard and defensive tackle... Four-year starter at both positions... Three times an all-area, all-conference and All-East choice... Unanimous selection to the Associated Press all-state team as a senior. Only player to be on the GREENSBORO DAILY NEWS all-state tear in both 1981 and 1982... Selected to the ROANOKE TIMES Top Fiv in North Carolina... Played in the Shrine Bowl... In addition to hi four football letters, also won four in track and basketball... State shc put champion as a sophomore... Also once won the shot put at th National Junior Olympics... Finished eighth in the Atlantic Coas Conference Championships in 1984 and seventh last seasor although he didn't have time to practice because of spring football. Selected by Roanoke's faculty as the school's best all-around studen as a senior... Undecided on a college major... Born October 29, 1964

Moses Watson

Tailback
5-5, 180, Senior
Laurinburg, N.C.

Non-scholarship player who is one of the team's hardest workers... Small, but has a lot of heart... Tough and competitive which has helped him overcome his lack of size... Doesn't have the great natural ability of other players at this position, but makes up for that with intelligence, strength and speed... Actually, one of the team's strongest players... Got a lot of work in the spring because of injuries to other tailbacks... Won the award as the most physical offensive back in spring practice... Got into a couple of games last season... Joined the squad in 1983 and has done a fine job on the scout team... Nose guard and linebacker at Scotland High School... Current teammate Dave Graham also played there... Voted Student-Athlete of the Year as a senior... Nominated for a Morehead Scholarship... Majoring in biology and hopes to attend dental school... Born April 18, 1964.

Todd Whiteside

Defensive Back
5-10, 170, Sophomore
Spindale, N.C.

A walk-on who did a good job during spring practice... One of the reserves at right cornerback... Hard worker... Has a great attitude about the sport... Good competitor... Could help on special teams this fall.

Tar Heel Tidbits

Carolina's football game programs were selected the second-best in the nation last year in judging by CoSIDA, the College Sports Information Directors of America. The Tar Heel programs are edited by Dave Lohse, assistant sports information director at the University.

49

Mitch Wike

Linebacker
6-2, 213, Freshman
Brevard, N.C.

Very conscientious young player... Wants to learn and is willing to work to improve... An intense football player... Has good intelligence... Had a good spring after being red-shirted last fall... Needs some experience... Should be an important contributor to special teams this year... Western North Carolina's Lineman of the Year as a high school senior at Brevard... Played linebacker and tight end... Played on a 12-1 Division II state championship team as a sophomore... Led Brevard to a 14-0 record and another state title as a junior... Named Transylvania County Athlete of the Year after that season... As a senior was named to the GREENSBORO NEWS AND RECORD all-state team and to the RALEIGH TIMES' Top 25 in North Carolina... All-conference at both tight end and linebacker... Chosen for the Shrine Bowl and the East-West All-Star Game... Won three letters in football, four in baseball and one in basketball... Was MVP of his 28-1 conference championship basketball team as a junior... Member of the National Honor Society... A Morehead Scholarship nominee... Selected for Who's Who Among High School Students... Studying in the General College at Carolina... Born December 16, 1965.

Earl Winfield

Wide Receiver
6-0, 187, Senior
Petersburg, Va.

Carolina's leading receiver last year with 34 catches for 527 yards... Averaged 15.5 yards a reception... Heads into his final season as one of the Tar Heels' top all-star candidates... An explosive player who has emerged as a big-play performer... A threat to score from anywhere on the field... A great all-around athlete... Has all the tools to be one of the best wide receivers in college football... Coaches are expecting him to be just that this fall... Has good speed and quickness... Tremendous competitor... Has excellent toughness and is a fine blocker... Catches the ball well in crowds... Extremely dangerous after he catches the ball because of his speed... Unselfish and a team player... A fifth-year player who adds maturity to the offense... Has become an excellent team leader... Finished third in the Atlantic Coast Conference in receptions last year... Longest play of the year was a 63-yard catch which set up a touchdown against Virginia... Made several circus catches during the year, including spectacular one-handed grabs against Navy and Clemson... Had a career-high seven catches for 92 yards against Georgia Tech... Named ACC Offensive Player of the Week for that performance... His catches and yardage that day were the most ever by a Tar Heel against the Yellow Jackets... His 63-yard catch against Virginia helped him to 116 yards on receptions that day, another career high... Had four catches for 88 yards against Navy... His 34 catches last year equalled the seventh-best total in school history... Enters his senior season with 60 career receptions, ninth-highest figure ever at Carolina... With 47 catches this fall, he would become the school's all-time leading receiver.

Did an excellent job in spring practice... Caught touchdown passes of 12 and 35 yards from Kevin Anthony in a scrimmage in Charlotte... Then had eight catches for 108 yards in the spring game, including a 42-yard scoring reception... Originally came to Carolina in 1981, but suffered a shoulder injury the second day of practice... Missed all of that season, but got a hardship ruling and an extra year of eligibility... Had 10 catches in 1982 for 185 yards... At the time, that equalled the single-season record for freshmen... Also matched the single-game freshman receiving record with five catches for 115 yards against Bowling Green... Had a 37-yard touchdown catch in that game... Worked his way into the starting lineup late that season and has been a fixture ever since... Caught 16 passes for 195 yards and two touchdowns in 1983... His TD plays covered 30 yards against Georgia Tech and 25 against N.C. State... The touchdown against Tech came in the fourth quarter and put the Tar Heels ahead for the first time in a game they eventually won, 38-21... Had four receptions in the Peach Bowl that year against Florida State... Has also been used to return kickoffs at times during his career... Played defensive back and running back at Dinwiddie High School and Fork Union Military Academy... First-team all-state as a defensive back and second team as a runner at Dinwiddie in his senior year... Named to Coach and Athlete All-America team... Ran for 1,034 yards and scored 15 touchdowns as a senior... Averaged 22.4 points in basketball and also competed in field events and sprints in track... During the past track season at Carolina, ran sprints and competed in high jump and long jump... Majoring in recreation... Born August 6, 1961.

Noting The Tar Heels

School Colors

The adoption of light blue and white as the niversity of North Carolina's colors dates ack to the 19th Century.

When the University reopened following the Var Between the States most social activities ere directed by two literary societies, the ialectic and Philanthropic. The official color f the Di was light blue and that of the Phi hite. Since society membership was ompulsory for all students, the opinions and ctivities of these organizations were by ature of circumstances all embracing. It was he custom for all men from localities west of hapel Hill to affiliate with the Di and enerally for students from the east to become nembers of the Phi.

On public occasions such as ommencement exercises, the student fficers, marshals and ball managers were hosen equally from the membership of the wo societies. It had long been the custom of ach society for its members to wear its color n such occasions. However, the chief narshal and chief ball manager, one from the Di and the other from the Phi, wore ombination light blue and white regalias and osettes signifying that they represented the whole student body and not just one of the societies.

Later, when intercollegiate athletics were established and students began accompanying teams to other colleges or cities, the question of what to wear became a problem. Certainly, the students wanted to be associated with the University, but the school had no official colors. So it seemed only natural for the fans to adorn themselves with the same combination as that used by the chief marshals and ball managers, colors which represented not membership in a society, but in the University student body.

The light blue worn by Tar Heel students today has many different names. It is called simply light blue, powder blue, sky blue or Columbia Blue among other things. Generally, however, it is just referred to as Carolina Blue. The accomplishments of Tar Heel athletes have made the color synonimous with the University so it now simply bears its name.

Why Tar Heels?

University of North Carolina athletic teams are known as the Tar Heels because North Carolina is "The Tar Heel State."

There are a number of different stories about how the nickname was originally acquired. The two most widely accepted explanations are repeated here. The fact that the production of tar, pitch and turpentine was for many years the state's principal industry is a key element in both stories.

One legend has the nickname being applied to the state's residents as long ago as the Revolutionary War. According to this story, the troops of British General Cornwallis were fording what is now known as the Tar River between Rocky Mount and Battleboro when they discovered that tar had been dumped into the stream to impede their crossing. When they finally got across the river they found their feet completely black with tar. Their observation that anyone who waded North Carolina rivers would acquire tar heels led to the nickname first being used.

Others say the nickname was acquired during the War Between the States. During one of that war's fiercest battles a column supporting North Carolina troops was driven from the field. After the battle, the North Carolinians, who had successfully fought it out alone, happened to meet the regiment which had fled to safety and were greeted with the question, "Any more tar down in the Old North State, boys?"

"No, not a bit," shot back one of the North Carolina soldiers. "Old Jeff's bought it all up," he went on, referring to Jefferson Davis, President of the Confederacy.

"Is that so? What's he going to do with it?"

"He's going to put it on you'ns heels to make you stick better in the next fight."

Upon hearing of the incident, Robert E. Lee smiled and said to a fellow officer, "God bless the Tar Heel boys."

A Ram For a Mascot?

For over 60 years the mascot of North Carolina's football team has been a ram. The current sideline star for the Tar Heels is Rameses IX.

Since Carolina's nickname is Tar Heels, it might seem strange to have a ram as a mascot. It is. But, there is a good explanation. It's offered by Vic Huggins, Carolina's head cheerleader back in 1924.

"In 1924 school spirit was at a peak," Huggins once explained. "But something seemed to be missing. One day it hit me. Georgia had a bulldog for a mascot and State a wolf. What Carolina needed was a symbol."

Two years earlier the Tar Heels had posted a brilliant 9-1 record. The star of that 1922 team was a bruising fullback named Jack Merritt. Merritt was nicknamed "the battering ram" for the way he plunged into lines. It seemed natural to Huggins to link a mascot with Merritt's unusual sobriquet.

"Charlie Woollen, the athletic business manager at that time, agreed with the idea and gave us $25 to purchase a fitting mascot," said Huggins.

Rameses the First was shipped in from Texas, arriving just in time to be introduced at a pep rally before the VMI game. Complete with a monogram blanket on his back, Rameses helped make the pep rally one the school's greatest.

Then the ram was taken to Emerson Field where Carolina was an underdog to a strong VMI team. But, for three quarters the Tar Heels battled the visitors to a scoreless tie.

Late in the fourth period Carolina's Bunn Hackney was called upon to attempt a field goal. Before taking the field he stopped to rub Rameses' head for good luck.

Seconds later Hackney's 30-yard dropkick sailed between the goalposts, giving the Tar Heels a 3-0 victory and a legendary mascot.

From that November afternoon in 1924, the deeds and experiences of Rameses I and his successors have been the basis for countless anecdotes.

For instance, there was Rameses I making his first indoor appearance. Huggins was again the originator of the idea, the Tin Can was the scene and a basketball game was the event.

A theatrical debut with bright lights and a chorus was planned for the ram's introduction before a capacity audience. But when Rameses was led to midcourt at halftime, it became evident that he was not housebroken. In addition to being his first, that was also Rameses' last basketball game.

Tar Heel rams have traveled everywhere from New York City (for the Carolina-Notre Dame game in 1949) to Jacksonville for Carolina's Gator Bowl appearances.

Generally, the highlight of each season for Rameses is trying to outwit Duke students who always try to ram-nap him before the traditional big game with the Blue Devils.

Five Retired Jersies

Five Carolina football jersies—numbers 22, 46, 50, 59 and 99—have been retired over the years in honor of the men who wore them.

The number 22 was almost as well known as the athlete who wore it—Charlie "Choo Choo" Justice. One of college football's all-time superstars, Justice was an All-America halfback at Carolina from 1946 to 1949. In fact, those years generally are known as simply "The Justice Era" in Chapel Hill.

Carl Snavely, Justice's coach, was instrumental in getting number 46 retired. That belonged to Cotton Sutherland, an outstanding back who was killed in an automobile crash while a Carolina student.

Number 50 was Art Weiner, an All-America end in the late Forties. In 1949 Art caught a school-record 52 passes. He was also a great defensive player.

Another end, Andy Bershak, wore 59. A defensive standout, he was an All-America selection in 1939.

Carolina's first All-America, George Barclay, had the number 99. He was a star guard and earned All-America honors in 1934.

Chancellor Christopher Fordham

As its chancellor since 1980, Dr. Christopher C. Fordham III has led the University of North Carolina to ever stronger standing as one of the nation's great academic, research and service institutions.

In report after report, the University has placed among the top two dozen colleges and universities in the nation and at the top among those in the South or Southeast. The University has been measured by its reputation among peers, the productivity of its faculty and graduates and its success in attracting federal and other outside funds for research and programs. By each criterion, it has been found excellent.

Building upon those honors, Fordham has directed the University into new areas critical to the nation's future.

Particularly visible among these initiatives have been efforts to extend the University's cooperative efforts with North Carolina's public schools and steps to incorporate technology into all appropriate aspects of the education process.

The school-related programs have reflected Fordham's philosophy that education is a continuum, with stronger public schools providing greater human resources for the University, which in turn produces the leaders of the future.

Significant efforts have included the Lyndhurst Fellowship Program, which supports bright students who will become the best teachers; the Center for Mathematics and Science Education, which works to increase the supply of qualified secondary school mathematics and science teachers; a College of Arts and Sciences program of workshops and internships for writing and foreign language teachers; and other innovative activities.

The emphasis on education quality overlaps considerably with the efforts Fordham has directed to gain acceptance for technology in all areas of academia.

The College of Arts and Sciences is conducting a computer-aided curriculum development program with support from IBM Corp., in which computers are being used in language tutorials, English composition and other areas.

The University also is constructing a new computer science building, which will assist faculty members in that area in pursuing the most advanced research. Teaching in computer science has been enhanced by a teleclassroom facility, designed and operated by the Media and Instructional Support Center, which enables classes to be taught concurrently at Carolina and Duke University with full two-way communication.

Fordham's leadership role extends beyond the bounds of the University. He was a founding member of the board of directors of the Microelectronics Center of North Carolina, and he holds several other memberships and committee appointments in professional organizations.

The University's success in these areas of emphasis has not come at the expense of its other programs.

Great strides in the health professions were made while Fordham was dean of the School of Medicine (1971-79) and vice chancellor for health affairs (1977-80). Medical school programs were expanded, faculty strengthened and minority enrollment increased and the school gained national prominence for its excellence and creativity. The Area Health Education Centers program was begun as a way to bring physicians closer to the population in this relatively rural state. A partnership among the state's four academic medical centers, community hospitals and health professionals throughout the state, AHEC has succeeded in achieving a more balanced distribution of doctors and other health professionals and is considered a model for decentralized health education.

New programs also have been undertaken in the other health affairs schools—dentistry, nursing, pharmacy and public health—and a cooperative effort has led to the creation of a Center for Health Promotion and Disease Prevention.

An equally impressive list of achievements has been recorded in the Division of Academic Affairs. The implementation of a new curriculum has incorporated basic skills in English, mathematics and foreign languages, as well broad perspectives in science, in Western a non-Western culture, in aesthetics and in t humanities.

The School of Business Administration h undertaken numerous service programs an in concert with the William R. Kenan Jr. Cha itable Trust, has begun a center for the stu of private enterprise, which will be housed the Kenan Center of North Carolina, nc under construction—with non-state fundin

Many of the accomplishments of Fordham tenure as chancellor were mentioned prom nently in the report of the University's yea long self-study, which concluded early 1985. The study found the University to h particularly effective in its undergradua teaching, in scholarship among the faculty, research achievement and in public servic programs.

"This study will help guide the Universit and the state into reinforced and advance excellence," Fordham said, "as we approac the 21st century."

A Greensboro native, Fordham is the son an alumnus and he met his wife Barbara whi they were at Chapel Hill. Their children als have attended the University.

Fordham earned his certificate in medicin from the then two-year medical school at UN in 1949 and his M.D. from Harvard University Except for a few relatively short period away—for military service, dean of medicin at the Medical College of Georgia and a brie stint as a high federal government health off cial—he has been in Chapel Hill since ther

"When one's University calls, it's a ver magnetic pull,' he said.

While under the influence of that magnet ism, he has repaid the University with wor that has brought personal distinction as wel Fordham is a former member of the Associa tion of American Medical Colleges' executiv council and past chairman of the AAMC an the National Council of Deans and Souther Regional Deans.

He is a diplomate of the American Board c Internal Medicine, a distinguished servic member of the AAMC, a fellow of the America College of Physicians and a member of severa other honorary societies. A member of th Institute of Medicine of the National Academy of Sciences, he presently serves on the insti tute's governing council.

He is an accomplished researcher and ha written widely on health policy.

But above all, Fordham is the leader of th University at Chapel Hill, a job he continues t approach with missionary zeal.

"The University, I think, has a very specia role," he has said, "because it's where th youngsters can reach for the stars. There ar 13-year-olds all over the state of North Caroli na who are striving to make better grades fo one reason right now in this stage of thei lives—so they can go to Carolina. And that's a wonderful aspiration for them to have."

Athletic Director John Swofford

In just five years as athletic director at the University of North Carolina, John Swofford has established himself as one of the most respected administrators in intercollegiate sports.

Swofford is in charge of one of the nation's best all-around athletic programs. Tar Heel football and basketball teams annually rank among the finest in America. In addition, Carolina fields outstanding teams in men's and women's non-revenue sports.

Although just beginning his sixth year in his position, Swofford has already seen Tar Heel teams win 31 Atlantic Coast Conference championships and seven national collegiate titles—one in basketball, two in lacrosse and four in women's soccer. Carolina's football team has played in four bowl games in the past five seasons. The Tar Heels have also won or tied for first place in the race for the Carmichael Cup, symbolic of overall athletic excellence in the ACC, for the past five years.

Certainly, credit for Carolina's on-the-field success must go to Swofford for his behind-the-scenes work. While the day-to-day running of the Athletic Department is a time-consuming task alone, Swofford has also undertaken several major projects in his five years as athletic director.

With Swofford in the lead, Carolina successfully completed a $34,000,000 fund-raising drive to construct a student activities center which will include a 22,000-seat basketball arena and an Olympic-size swimming pool. Plans call for an addition to Kenan Fieldhouse, the Student-Athlete Development Center, to be built after the 1985 football season. This building, a one-of-a-kind facility, will include the most modern equipment to aid student-athletes in their studies and physical development.

Since Swofford became athletic director, a new tennis stadium and clubhouse have been built; Boshamer Stadium has been expanded and dressing rooms renovated for the Tar Heel baseball team; three new holes have been completed at Finley Golf Course; the football practice fields have been rebuilt and lighted; a new Astroturf playing field installed; and the Fetzer Field track has been resurfaced.

In addition, the automation of the Athletic Department has been completed; the University has hosted the NCAA Golf Championships, an NCAA regional baseball tournament, the AIAW National Soccer Tournament, the AIAW National Softball Tournament and the NCAA Women's Soccer Championships; the academic support staff has been expanded; and major changes have been made in future Tar Heel football schedules.

Swofford has served as chairman of the NCAA Football Television Committee for the past year, a time in which the NCAA has faced one of its biggest problems—the dispute over football television rights. He is also a member of the NCAA Football Post-Season Bowl Committee and is past chairman of the ACC Television Committee.

These accomplishments are a good indication Swofford is well aware of the problems facing intercollegiate athletics and how to cope with them. But Chancellor Christopher Fordham knew that when he named him to replace Bill Cobey as athletic director on May 1, 1980. Cobey had resigned to pursue public office.

Swofford gives the credit for Carolina's recent successes to the people around him.

"We have an outstanding coaching, administrative and clerical staff, and with their help, our primary goal will be to continue the tradition of integrity and excellence that has been the trademark of Carolina athletics," he says. "Our athletic program is a part of a great university. It is a special place and we will strive to reflect her values and character.

"We will continue our commitment to a strong overall program and we will continually strive to operate on the principle that the student-athletes who are participants in our various sports are our greatest assets. We must be committed to their positive development as individuals while they are a part of our athletic program."

A native of North Wilkesboro, N.C., Swofford first came to Carolina as a Morehead Scholar in 1967. He graduated in 1971 with an A.B. in psychology and industrial relations.

He played quarterback and defensive back on Tar Heel football teams in 1969, 1970 and 1971. Those last two teams went to the Peach Bowl and Gator Bowl. He tied a then-school record against Vanderbilt in 1969 by throwing three touchdown passes in one game.

Swofford was named to the ACC Academic Honor Roll and Who's Who in College Athletics. He also served as president of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes on campus.

In 1973 he earned a masters in athletic administration at Ohio University. In his time there Swofford served as a graduate assistant to the assistant business manager of athletics.

From 1973 to 1976 he was athletic ticket manager and assistant to the director of athletic facilities and finance at the University of Virginia. His duties in that job included directing all ticket sales, advertising and promotions. He also handled game contract settlements, stadium and coliseum operations and team travel arrangements.

He returned to Carolina in May, 1976 as assistant athletic director and business manager, handling all the athletic department's business affairs. Among his many other responsibilities were handling fund-raising affairs, team travel and the athletic dining hall. He also coordinated sports camps.

Although he remained assistant athletic director, Swofford dropped the business manager title and was named assistant executive vice-president of the Educational Foundation in January, 1979. In that job he was in charge of the overall financial structure of the athletic department. His position with the Educational Foundation involved general office procedures, membership services and fund-raising.

Swofford is a member of the National Association of Collegiate Athletic Directors and is on the alumni advisory board for the Ohio University Sports Administration program. He received the Distinguished Alumni Award from Ohio University in 1984.

Swofford serves on the board of directors of the Chapel Hill Ronald McDonald House and North Carolina National Bank in Chapel Hill. He is also on the board of directors of North Carolina Amateur Sports which is handling the 1987 National Sports Festival. In addition, he is on the board of trustees of the Pop Warner Little Scholars, Inc. and a member of the 1984-85 University Planning Committee and the 1984-85 Chancellor's Task Force on University Development.

A regular jogger, Swofford enjoys reading and tennis. He is married to the former Becky Owens of North Wilkesboro. They have two children, Autumn and Chad.

Head Coach Dick Crum

Dick Crum heads into his eighth season as head football coach at the University of North Carolina as one of the most successful and highly-respected men in his profession.

Counting four years at Miami of Ohio, Crum has compiled an overall record of 89-35-3 in 11 seasons as a college coach. That's a winning percentage of .713, the seventh-best among the top coaches in the game.

Although Carolina suffered an off-season last year with a 5-5-1 record, Crum's teams have still won 50 games in the last six years. No other school in the state has ever won more during a similar period of time.

Carolina, in fact, ranks as one of the 20 winningest teams in the country during that six-year stretch. Highlighting the period was an 11-1 season in 1980 in which the Tar Heels equalled the school record for most victories in a year.

Under Crum, Carolina has finished in the Top 20 of the national wire service polls four of the past six years. That includes rankings of ninth and 10th in 1980 and eighth and ninth in 1981, making Crum the only coach in Atlantic Coast Conference history to have a team finish in the Top 10 of both national polls for two straight years.

At one time Carolina was ranked in the Associated Press Top 20 for an amazing 53 consecutive weeks.

Crum also has an incredible record in post-season play. Counting two wins at Miami, he is 6-1 in bowl games. His victories have come over Michigan, Arkansas, Georgia, South Carolina and Texas twice. He won four straight bowl games at Carolina from 1979 to 1982. No other ACC coach has ever won more than two straight bowl games.

Now the dean of ACC coaches, Crum took the Carolina job in January, 1978. He replaced Bill Dooley who had resigned to become athletic director and head coach at Virginia Tech. Prior to coming to Chapel Hill, Crum had compiled a 34-10-1 record in four seasons at Miami.

In announcing the selection of Crum as Dooley's replacement, Carolina Chancellor Ferebee Taylor said, "Dick Crum was the unanimous choice of our nominating committee to be the new football coach.

"Coach Crum's outstanding record at Miami University speaks for itself and we are confident that under his leadership, our football program will continue to maintain Carolina's high standards of excellence."

It has done just that. Crum got off to a rough start as his first Tar Heel team suffered a disappointing 5-6 season in 1978. The problems of players adjusting to a new coaching staff and an assortment of injuries were major reasons for that losing mark. However, Crum quickly brought Carolina back to national prominence.

His 1979 team had the best record in the ACC, going 8-3-1. The Tar Heels were the only team in the country to defeat Pittsburgh that year and toppled Michigan, 17-15, in the Gator Bowl.

That was followed by the great 11-1 season in 1980. The Tar Heels won the ACC championship and led the league in scoring, scoring defense, total offense, total defense and rushing offense. Crum was ACC and District III Coach of the Year. Carolina whipped Texas, 16-7, in the Bluebonnet Bowl.

The Tar Heels then went 10-2 in 1981, leading the ACC in total offense and scoring. Carolina climbed to as high as third in the national polls during the season, the highest the Tar Heels had been since 1948. The season might have been even better had it not been for an early injury to tailback Kelvin Bryant and a mid-season injury to quarterback Rod Elkins. Carolina capped the year with a 31-27 triumph over Arkansas in the Gator Bowl.

In 1982, the Tar Heels set school records for total offense and passing yardage while compiling an 8-4 record. Carolina was second nationally in total defense and sixth in total offense. The Tar Heels defeated seventh-ranked Texas, 26-10, in the Sun Bowl.

Crum's team led the ACC in total offense and total defense in 1983 and set anoth school total offense record in the process. one point during the year the Tar Hee climbed to third in the national polls, b finished 8-4 with a Peach Bowl loss to Flori State.

Then came last fall's 5-5-1 record. Playir with what Crum had termed before the year "the youngest team I've ever coached," the T Heels struggled early. However, the team in proved down the stretch, losing just once in i last six starts.

In his seven seasons at Carolina, Crum already the third-winningest coach in scho history with a 55-25-2 mark. He needs just fi wins to pass Hall of Famer Carl Snavely ar take the number two spot on the victory lis

Crum has produced seven first-team Al Americas in the last five seasons—outsi linebacker Lawrence Taylor and offensiv guard Ron Wooten in 1980, offensive guar David Drechsler in 1981, Drechsler and defer sive tackle William Fuller in 1982 and Fulle and offensive tackle Brian Blados in 1983.

Taylor was the ACC Player of the Year i 1980 and has been the NFL Defensive Player the Year for the past four seasons. Bryant wa the most valuable player in the United State Football League during its first year of operation. Ethan Horton, the ACC Player of the Year last fall, was the first running back taken in last spring's NFL draft, proving Crum to have been correct four years ago when he moved Horton from quarterback to tailback.

In his seven years at Carolina, Crum has coached nine 1,000-yard rushers. In that short period he has already produced three of Carolina's top five career leaders in rushing, passing and total offense.

Under Crum's direction, the Tar Heels have led the ACC in total offense and total defense three times each in the last five years. Carolina is the only school to lead the league in both at least once in those five seasons.

Although Crum's teams have rewritten Carolina's total offense and passing records, he is best known for his defensive philosophies. And he still says defense will be the key to Carolina's football success.

"I think you win championships with good defensive teams," he says. "Fundamentals are also so important in football. If you play fundamental and sound football and don't make mistakes, you're going to win a lot of games."

Crum certainly plans on winning a lot more games at Carolina. The people close to him have no doubt about that.

"Coach Crum is building a great program," says Bryant, the Baltimore Star tailback who rates as one of the best runners in the game. "I think one reason he's had success has been the fact he really cares about his players. He's interested in everything you do, on the field and off it. I know he's helped me in a lot of things not even related to football."

One reason for Crum's good rapport with his young players may be his 12 years of experience as a high school coach. He considers those years great preparation for his college coaching career.

A native of Youngstown, Ohio, Crum attended Boardman High School and then enrolled at Muskingum College. He later transferred to Mount Union College where he received his B.S. degree in 1957, majoring in mathematics with a minor in physics. He also holds an M.Sc. from Western Reserve.

In football, Crum was a non-scholarship halfback. He saw most of his action with the B team and it was there he learned of the great importance of fundamentals.

The first six years of his coaching career were spent as an assistant at Boardman High, Sandusky High and Warren Harding High, all in Ohio.

Crum accepted his first head coaching position in 1963 at Mentor High School in Mentor, Ohio. He compiled a six-year record of 50-9-1, winning three league championships. His record in his last four seasons there was 38-2.

He joined Bill Mallory's Miami staff as defensive backfield coach in 1969.

He was appointed defensive coordinator in 1970 and held that position for four years. While he was defensive coordinator his teams ranked third, fifth, sixth and first in the nation in total defense. The Redskins also topped the nation in rushing defense in 1973.

When Mallory left Miami to become head coach at Colorado after the 1973 season, Crum was named his successor. He won three Mid-American Conference championships in four years there and twice took teams to the Tangerine Bowl. The Redskins defeated Georgia, 21-10, in 1974 and South Carolina, 20-7, in 1975 in those post-season appearances.

Crum's Miami teams had records of 10-0-1 in 1974, 11-1 in 1975, 3-8 in 1976 and 10-1 in 1977.

In his only losing season at Miami, the Redskins lost nine of their 11 starting defensive players in their first two games. After an 0-6 start, however, Crum rallied his team to three wins in its final five games. The Redskins then capped that comeback by going 10-1 in 1977, coming from behind eight times to win.

Miami is known as the "cradle of coaches." Other former coaches at the Oxford school include Woody Hayes, Ara Parseghian, John Pont, Bo Schembechler and Mallory.

Like all those men Crum was extremely successful at Miami. He was selected Ohio Coach of the Year in 1974 and 1975, MAC Coach of the Year in 1974 and District Five Coach of the Year in 1974 and 1977. His 1974 squad finished the season ranked 10th in the wire service polls, the highest rating of any team in MAC history. His three MAC championships are the most ever won by a Redskin coach.

Twice Crum was selected to serve as head coach in the Ohio Shrine Bowl Game. He has also been on coaching staffs in the All-America Bowl, the Coaches' All-America Game and the Japan Bowl.

Crum has served on several committees of the American Football Coaches Association and is currently a member of the AFCA's board of trustees.

While at Miami, Crum had been considered for other head coaching jobs. However, he had always asked that his name be withdrawn from consideration.

"I had been interviewed at other schools," he says, "but I always left those meetings with very mixed feelings and emotions. After I interviewed at Carolina, I had no such qualms. On the plane ride back to Ohio I told my wife, 'If they offer me the job, I'm going to accept.'

"The thing that influenced me more than anything else is the fact that Carolina is an excellent academic institution as well as a home of great athletics."

In his spare time Crum enjoys fishing and the outdoors in general. Each summer his family takes a two-to-four week fishing trip to Canada. Their vacation spot is in an area just north of North Bay.

Crum also has a great interest in flying. He obtained his pilot's license in the summer of 1980.

In 1984 Crum received the Alumni Service Award from Mount Union College, the highest honor his alma mater bestows on an alumnus. It was "presented in recognition of outstanding achievement in chosen or professional fields, service to the college and community service."

Dick is married to the former Shirley Moncur of Delaware, Ohio. She is an Ohio University graduate with degrees in physical education and library science. They have three sons—Mike, 22, and twins, Jeff and Joel, 20.

Football Staff

Bobby Cale (Offensive Backs)

Coaching the Carolina running backs is Bobby Cale, now in his fourth season on the job.

Cale, a former star Tar Heel player, worked on the Carolina staff for two years as a graduate and part-time assistant coach. He became a full-time staff member in the spring of 1982.

During his playing days in Chapel Hill, Cale was a four-year starter at cornerback. He led the Atlantic Coast Conference in interceptions in 1976 with five and finished his career with 12, tying him for second place on the school's all-time interception list.

After graduating in 1979, Cale signed a free agent contract with the Seattle Seahawks. He then returned to Chapel Hill that fall to serve as a graduate assistant under Dick Crum.

After spending one year in private business, Cale came back to Carolina in 1981 as a part-time assistant. He was elevated to a full-time post after Cleve Bryant resigned to join the New England Patriots' staff.

In three seasons Cale has coached four 1,000-yard rushers—Kelvin Bryant (1982), Tyrone Anthony (1983) and Ethan Horton (1983 and 1984). Bryant was the USFL Player of the Year in 1983, Anthony was a third-round selection in the 1983 NFL draft and Horton was the first running back chosen in last spring's NFL draft.

A native of Middletown, Del., Cale and his wife, Emily, have a daughter, Charmain.

Fred Chatham (Tight Ends)

After assisting Dale Evans in the secondary last year, Fred Chatham will coach the Carolina tight ends this fall.

A former North Carolina high school coach, Chatham is in his third year as a full-time member of Dick Crum's Tar Heel staff.

Chatham, a native of Elkin, N.C., is a 1974 Carolina graduate. He was a Dean's List student and played on the varsity baseball team here.

He began his football coaching career at Elkin High School in 1977 as an assistant. He served as head coach there from 1978 to 1980 and was named Tri-County Coach of the Year in 1979.

Chatham returned to Chapel Hill in 1981 and was a part-time assistant for the Tar Heels for two seasons. He was elevated to a full-time spot when NCAA rules were changed in 1983, allowing schools to hire a ninth assistant.

A fine all-around athlete, Chatham played on Virginia state prep football championship teams at Woodbury Forest in 1968 and 1969. He played semi-professional baseball in Winston-Salem at one time and also once qualified as a member of an Oklahoma rodeo circuit.

Chatham and his wife, Pam, are expecting their first child later in the fall.

Marc Dove (Defensive Backs)

Marc Dove will be working with players in the defensive secondary in his second year on the Tar Heel staff.

Dove coached Carolina's outside linebackers last season. Now, in the Tar Heels' revised defensive scheme, he will work with the cornerbacks and free safeties.

Dove came to Carolina from Mississippi State in the winter of 1984. He had been the defensive coordinator there for two years.

A 1972 graduate of Texas Tech, Dove worked as a graduate assistant at his alma mater under Jim Carlen for one year and then spent two seasons as a full-time member of the Red Raider staff. He went with Carlen to South Carolina in 1975.

After three seasons there Dove was named defensive backfield coach at Mississippi State in 1978. He was appointed the Bulldogs' defensive coordinator in February, 1982.

Dove was a three-year regular during his playing days at Texas Tech. He was coached by J.T. King as a freshman and sophomore and by Carlen in his final two seasons. Dove, a defensive back, was named Southwest Conference Defensive Player of the Year in 1971.

In high school, Dove played on a state championship team at San Angelo, Texas. His coach there was Emory Bellard.

Marc and his wife, Judy, have two sons—Zachary Paul and Seth.

Bobby Elliott (Wide Receivers)

Beginning his third year on the Tar Heel staff is Bobby Elliott, who coaches the Tar Heel wide receivers.

Elliott came to Carolina in February, 1983. In his first year here, one of his players, Mark Smith, led the Atlantic Coast Conference in touchdown catches. Last fall Elliott had two players among the seven leading receivers in the ACC. No other school had more than one.

A native of Iowa City, Iowa, Elliott was a two-time Academic All-America defensive back at the University of Iowa in 1974 and 1975. A history major with a 3.8 grade point average, Elliott was awarded post-graduate scholarships by both the NCAA and the National Football Foundation.

He began his coaching career as a graduate assistant at Iowa in 1976 and then served as defensive backfield coach at Kent State in 1977. In 1978 Elliott moved to Ball State where he coordinated the defense and coached the secondary for two years.

Elliott then coached the defensive backs at Iowa State for three seasons. He worked briefly at N.C. State in 1983 before coming to Chapel Hill.

Elliott is the son of Bump Elliott, the former head football coach at Michigan and currently the director of athletics at Iowa.

Bobby and his wife, Joey, have a son, Grant, and a daughter, Jessica.

Dale Evans (Defensive Backs)

One of the most respected defensive coaches in college football is Dale Evans, who will work with the players at Carolina's two strong safety positions this year.

Evans, beginning his third season in Chapel Hill, came to Carolina in February, 1983 from the University of Colorado. He had been defensive coordinator there and also worked with the Buffaloes' inside linebackers.

A native of Pierce, W.Va., Evans attended West Virginia University where he received his undergraduate and master's degrees. A walk-on football player, he was the Mountaineers' starting quarterback and free safety for two seasons.

He began his coaching career at Sisterville High School in Sisterville, W.Va. He coached there in 1963 and 1964 before becoming an assistant at Salem College in West Virginia for two years. He then served as head coach at Salem for one season before taking the job as freshman coach at West Virginia.

After two years at his alma mater, Evans spent four seasons at Texas Tech and eight at South Carolina. He worked with the secondary all 12 of those years. He then went to Colorado for the 1982 season before joining Dick Crum's Carolina staff.

Evans and his wife, Joann, have two sons, Kelly and Tracy. Tracy played football at South Carolina, graduating last spring.

Ted Gill (Defensive Linemen)

Ted Gill heads into his second year on the Carolina staff as coach of the Tar Heel defensive linemen.

A 15-year veteran in collegiate coaching, Gill joined Dick Crum's staff in the summer of 1984. He came to Carolina from Army where he had also been working with the defensive front. In fact, most of his coaching career has been spent with defensive units.

Gill, a 1970 graduate of Idaho State, was a two-time All-Big Sky defensive tackle for the Bengals. After graduation, he stayed on at Idaho State and coached the freshmen in the fall of 1970 as a part-time assistant. He spent the next three seasons as a full-time staff member with responsibilities in the offensive and defensive lines.

Gill then spent two seasons each at Utah and New Mexico State before going to Ball State in 1978 for four years. He coached the defensive line in his first two seasons there and served as defensive coordinator in the last two.

He coached the defensive line at Cornell in 1982 before going to West Point in 1983.

Ted and his wife, Gloria, have three children, Nichole, Erica and Tracy.

Denny Marcin (Defensive Coordinator and Linebackers)

Denny Marcin is beginning his eighth year as coordinator of the Carolina defense.

In addition to running the entire defense, Marcin also works specifically with Carolina's inside linebackers. Five of his players have won All-Atlantic Coast Conference honors—Buddy Curry, Darrell Nicholson, Lee Shaffer, Chris Ward and Micah Moon. Curry is now one of the National Football League's top defensive players.

A native of Cleveland, Ohio, Marcin was a two-way tackle at Miami University. He received all-conference honorable mention his senior year.

After graduating in 1964, he served as an assistant football coach at Lakewood St. Edward High School for eight years. He then was head coach there for two seasons and had an overall record of 17-2-1. He also was baseball coach for eight years, compiling a 160-39 record.

Marcin returned to Miami in 1974 to coach the offensive guards and centers. He was named the Redskins' defensive coordinator in 1977 and assumed that same position when he joined Dick Crum at Carolina seven years ago. The Tar Heels have led the ACC in total defense three of the past five seasons.

In addition to football, Marcin also enjoys wrestling and has officiated on the high school, college and professional level.

Marcin and his wife, Betsey, have four children—Jeff, Denny, Melinda and Susie. Denny will be a freshman at Carolina this fall.

Bill Stewart (Offensive Linemen)

The newest member of the Carolina staff is Bill Stewart who will coach the Tar Heel offensive line.

Stewart came to Chapel Hill last spring from the U.S. Naval Academy where he also worked with offensive linemen.

A native of New Martinsville, W.Va., Stewart is a 1975 graduate of Fairmont State. He served as a team co-captain in his senior year there and played on two conference championship teams as a center and guard.

Stewart began his coaching career at Sisterville High School in West Virginia before joining the staff at Salem College for the 1977 and 1978 seasons. He then spent one year as a part-time assistant under Dick Crum at Carolina.

After working at Marshall University in 1980, Stewart then spent three seasons at William and Mary. He was a member of Gary Tranquill's Navy staff last year.

Stewart is married to the former Karen Kacor.

Randy Walker (Offensive Coordinator and Quarterbacks)

Quarterback coach Randy Walker is beginning his eighth season on the Carolina staff, but his first as offensive coordinator.

Walker worked with Tar Heel running backs in his first four seasons here before taking responsibility for the quarterbacks three years ago. Last fall his players set 13 school passing records.

A 1976 Miami graduate, Walker played on Redskin teams which compiled a 32-1-1 record. His teams won three straight Mid-American Conference championships and three consecutive Tangerine Bowl titles.

Randy finished his playing career as the sixth-leading rusher in Miami history. He was selected the team's most valuable player in his senior year after playing tailback, fullback and wingback at different times during the season.

A native of Troy, Ohio, Walker was drafted by the Cincinnati Bengals after graduation. He worked for Dick Crum as a graduate assistant at Miami in 1976 and became a full-time staff member in 1977 as the Redskins went 10-1. He joined Crum at Carolina in 1978.

In his four years of coaching the Tar Heel running backs, Walker worked with five 1,000-yard rushers.

Walker and his wife, Tammy, have two children—a daughter, Abbey, and a son, Jamie.

Jack Himebauch (Director of Recruiting Services)

The director of recruiting services at Carolina is Jack Himebauch, who is heading into his third season in that position and his eighth at Carolina.

Himebauch coordinates all of the Tar Heels' football recruiting. He also assists coaches of non-revenue sports in recruiting and performs a number of other duties assigned by the director of athletics.

A native of Rocky River, Ohio, Himebauch earned three letters as a tight end at Miami University under John Pont and Bo Schembechler. He led the Redskins in receptions in both 1963 and 1964. Himebauch had a career total of 43 catches for 614 yards and six touchdowns.

After graduating in 1965, Himebauch was an assistant coach under Dick Crum at Mentor High School for four years. He then spent six seasons as head coach at Darien High School in Connecticut.

Himebauch was an assistant at Fordham University in 1976 before returning to Miami and Crum's staff there in 1977. He then came with Crum to Carolina in 1978. During his college coaching career, Himebauch worked with defensive linemen, offensive linemen and receivers.

Jack and his wife, Cheryl, have three sons—Chris, Curt and Jonathan. Chris will be a freshman swimmer at Carolina this year.

Mike Marks (Athletic Fitness Director)

Mike Marks, who worked for the late Bear Bryant at Alabama, is in his fourth year as athletic fitness director at Carolina.

Marks' major responsibility is to develop strength and conditioning programs for all Tar Heel athletic teams. He is the first and only strength and conditioning specialist in the Atlantic Coast Conference to be certified by the National Strength Coaches Association.

A native of Richardson, Texas, Marks worked at Alabama for seven years before coming to Chapel Hill. In his first four years at Tuscaloosa, he served as assistant track coach. During his last five years there he supervised the strength and conditioning programs for all Crimson Tide athletes.

While Marks was a member of Bryant's staff, Alabama won two national football championships. Marks also coached six track and field All-Americas there, including an NCAA champion in the shot put.

Marks is a 1974 graduate of Oklahoma State where he played football and participated in track. He was a two-time Big Eight champion in the shot and also a two-time NCAA finalist in that event.

Mike is married to the former Lee Branch. He is interested in flying and has his pilot's license.

Skip Hunter (Trainer)

Carolina's head football trainer is Skip Hunter, who is now in his second season at that position.

Hunter has actually been at Carolina since January of 1980. Prior to moving into the head trainer's job last summer, he had been serving as director of physical therapy at the Student Health Service on campus. His responsibilities there included coordinating all medical aspects of rehabilitation for football players who suffered injuries.

Prior to coming to Chapel Hill, Hunter had been serving as director of sports medicine at the Shamrock Physical Therapy Clinic in Houston, Texas. One of his main duties there was to work with the team physicians for the Oilers and the Astros. He evaluated and treated all athletic injuries for the clinic and also performed pre-season screening tests for the Oilers.

A native of Belton, S.C., Hunter is a 1970 graduate of the University of South Carolina where he majored in biology. He took post-graduate courses at Clemson and then received his B.S. in physical therapy from South Carolina in 1977.

Hunter worked at clinics in Columbus, Ga. and at Duke University before going to Houston in 1978.

Skip and his wife, Jane, have a son, Jeb.

Rick Brewer (Sports Information Director)

Rick Brewer is beginning his 18th year in the Carolina Sports Information Office and his 11th as its director.

A native of Winston-Salem, N.C., Brewer is a 1971 Carolina graduate with a degree in journalism.

He served as a student assistant in the sports information office for three years and then was selected the school's first assistant SID upon graduation. He held that position for four years and then was named sports information director in 1975.

Brewer is directly in charge of handling publicity for Carolina's football and men's basketball teams. In addition, he oversees the publicizing of the University's entire 26-sport program.

In 1984 Brewer served as a press officer for the United States Olympic Committee at the Summer Games in Los Angeles. In that role, he worked as a liaison between the media covering the Games and American athletes and coaches. He had undertaken similar duties at the 1982 National Sports Festival in Indianapolis.

For the past three years Brewer has been a member of the media coordination committee which assists the media at the Final Four of the NCAA Men's Basketball Championships. He is a member of CoSIDA, the Football Writers Association of America, the U.S. Basketball Writers Association and the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association.

Brewer, a bachelor, is regarded as one of the world's finest parallel parkers and worse dancers.

Dave Lohse (Assistant Sports Information Director)

Dave Lohse is in his seventh year as assistant sports information director at Carolina.

Lohse's major responsibilities include editing the football and basketball game programs and handling publicity for a number of non-revenue sports. Last year the Carolina football game program which he edited was voted the second best in the nation by CoSIDA (College Sports Information Directors of America).

Several of Lohse's other publications have won national awards. In addition, he has coordinated publicity for six national championship teams at Carolina, two in lacrosse and four in women's soccer.

A 1977 graduate of Purdue University, Lohse worked in the Boilermaker Sports Information Office for three years as a student assistant. He also was inducted into Phi Beta Kappa there.

Lohse spent two years as a graduate assistant in the Carolina Sports Information Office before being named assistant SID in August, 1979.

A native of Griffith, Ind., Lohse is a member of the Football Writers Association of America, the U.S. Basketball Writers Association, the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association and CoSIDA. He is also a long-suffering Chicago Cubs fan.

Lohse is a bachelor.

Kenan Stadium

Nestled among the tall pine trees near the center of the Carolina campus is Kenan Stadium. It is here in this beautiful natural valley that Tar Heel football teams have played their games for 57 years.

Kenan Stadium is generally referred to as one of the most beautiful football arenas in the country. Considering its majestic setting among the Carolina pines, some say it is the most beautiful. Little can be done to actually enhance its natural beauty. In fact, most of the work on the stadium has been directed toward keeping up the natural setting.

Inside Sports magazine has rated Kenan Stadium one of the five best places in America to watch a college football game. For scenery, atmosphere and charm, it can't be surpassed.

William Rand Kenan, Jr. deserves the credit for making the stadium a part of the University. He was born in North Carolina in 1873 and was an 1894 Carolina graduate. An international industrialist, Kenan discovered carbide and made monumental progress in the field of chemistry.

The stadium was built as a memorial to his parents, William R. Kenan and Mary Hargrave Kenan. Construction began in November, 1926 and was completed the following August. Complete cost of the stadium and accompanying fieldhouse was $303,000.

In the first game played there, Carolina defeated Davidson, 27-0, on November 12, 1927.

Carolina's all-time record in Kenan is 178-105-15. The most points scored by the Tar Heels in Kenan came in the third game played there. Carolina toppled Wake Forest, 65-0, in the 1928 season opener.

As originally built, the stadium seated 24,000. However, in later years the benefactor added portable stands and then an upper deck to the permanent stands, bringing capacity to 48,000. Work has been done in the last few years to increase that to 50,000.

After the 1976 season, Kenan Fieldhouse underwent a massive renovation. The building was expanded to 30,000 square feet of dressing rooms, coaches' offices, weight-training quarters, lounges, meeting rooms and other facilities.

Another major change is scheduled to begin after the 1985 season. A 20,000-square foot addition to the Fieldhouse will be constructed to open next summer. The new building, called the Student-Athlete Development Center, will be a one-of-a-kind facility.

For study purposes, it will contain a language laboratory, a video room, a computer room, a theater-style lecture hall, several reading rooms and numerous tutorial rooms. Carolina's academic counseling staff will have the advantage of using the most modern techniques in helping student-athletes with their studies.

The bottom half of the building will be one of the finest strength fitness areas in the country. Workout rooms and performance laboratories will contain the most current apparatus available.

Besides giving the stadium to the University, Kenan also sponsored and financed the famous Kenan Professorships. He was awarded the honorary degree of LL.D. by his alma mater in 1944.

Capacity crowds have come to be expected in Kenan. Highest attendance at a game there was the standing-room-only crowd of 53,689 which saw the Tar Heels play Clemson in 1983.

The 1983 season also saw another first in the stadium—a game played under artificial lights. The Carolina-Duke game was played in the late afternoon so it could be televised throughout the Atlantic Coast Conference area. Portable lights were brought in since the second half was played after sunset.

In January, 1927 work was just getting underway on Carolina's new football stadium.

The University

A magnificent campus has done much to earn The University of North Carolina the title "Southern Part of Heaven," but the University's renown for natural beauty has been more than equalled by its reputation as one of the world's foremost academic institutions.

"UNC looks like a college campus, with football-size quads and tree-lined walks," said "The New York Times Selective Guide to Colleges," which then praised the University for its academic excellence and gave it the highest possible rating for academics.

In a comprehensive evaluation published by the National Academy Press, Carolina was ranked as one of the foremost graduate and research institutions in the nation. The faculty was rated as the most outstanding in the Southeast and one of the best in the country.

The faculty outranked all others in the region in the humanities, mathematics and the physical sciences, and the social and behavioral sciences.

Other studies have rated various schools and departments as among the best, and the University Library was rated first in the Southeast and near the top nationally.

Such lofty standing also is reflected in the distinctions accorded faculty members and students. Members of the faculty have won major awards and held top positions in virtually every discipline in which Carolina has a program. Fifty-four Guggenheim fellowships have been awarded since 1951, and numerous Fulbrights and other coveted awards are received each year.

Nine Carolina students have been named Rhodes Scholars in the last 12 years, and the University ranks third nationally among public institutions in the total production of Rhodes scholars. The Morehead Scholarship Program, patterned after the Rhodes and considered the foremost of its kind, brings about 60 outstanding and well-rounded freshmen to campus each year.

The Pulitzer Prize, one of the most visible of all recognitions of excellence, has been awarded to University faculty members, alumni and to books published by the UNC Press, long considered one of the country's best academic presses.

The faculty's research and scholarship capabilities attract large sums of money each year in research and training grants and contracts. Ranking among the top 30 research institutions in the nation, Carolina received more than $74 million through 741 separate contracts and grants in 1983-84. The School of Medicine, which received more than $43 million of the total, had an approval rate of more than 95 percent for its funding applications, the third best in the nation.

Research conducted at Chapel Hill has resulted in scientific and scholarly advances in virtually every subject area.

The University serves North Carolinians in many ways besides educating the youth of today and the leaders of tomorrow and conducting varied and valuable research. Through its many outreach programs, business and government leaders are given the opportunity to participate in management courses. Physicians, dentists, lawyers and othe professionals are given the opportunity to take part in teaching and learning programs, and the Division of Extension and Continuing Education provides the public an opportunity to study and learn at home with a wide spectrum of offerings in both credit and noncredit courses.

efforts, and the University has drawn national attention for its leading role in creating the Research Triangle Park, one of the most promising research and education centers in the world.

The flagship institution of the 16-campus consolidated university system, the University at Chapel Hill is the only state-supported institution of higher learning in North Carolina that has been elected to membership in the Association of American Universities, an organization of the 50 leading universities in the United States and Canada. Carolina became a member in 1922.

But excellence is not maintained by resting on institutional laurels, and Carolina continues to move ahead.

Early in 1985 the University completed a yearlong, detailed self-study, concentrating on its role as a major American research institution. Strengths were highlighted, but so were areas where the need was seen for improvement.

"This report can serve as a blueprint for development of the University into one of the top 10 research universities in the nation," said Dr. John D. Kasarda, chairman of the faculty steering committee that prepared the report.

"We see excellent prospects for developing new options in higher education and for splicing them to a tradition of excellence in learning that has accrued over 200 years, thereby extending and enriching that tradition," he said.

"This study will help guide the University and the state into reinforced and advanced excellence as we approach the 21st century," said University Chancellor Christopher C. Fordham III.

The need for the best of facilities also has been recognized. In the last two years, the University has dedicated the Walter Royal Davis Library, the Lineberger Cancer Research Center and the Hanes Art Center. Work proceeds on a new computer science building, an undergraduate chemistry laboratory building and the Kenan Center of North Carolina, which will house an institute for the study of private enterprise.

The motivation for Carolina's continuing thrust forward is simple. In 1795 it became the first state university to open its doors, and, as it approaches its bicentennial year, it is striving to remain first in as many ways as possible.

"In very few states can the most promising students truly reach for the stars at their own state-owned university, representing the best society has to offer," Fordham said.

"That the people have made these outstanding academic resources available—at such a modest cost—is part of the genius of the University of North Carolina."

A Town Touched by Strange Magic

The late Jake Wade wrote this piece a good many years ago. Even today, it captures the spirit of Chapel Hill as well as anything we know. Mr. Wade was director of sports publicity at the University at the time of his death.

This is a town touched by strange magic and one to which its peoples, many of them a curious breed, hold a rare and somewhat inexplicable attachment. Our town has no rivers, no mountains, no seas, but in the spring it is beautiful and in all seasons it is both wonderful and sad, romantic in the spirit of the youth it harbors in the educational process of the great State University, which is the town's principal industry.

Chapel Hill, where bells wake you in the morning, regardless of whether you live in the Beta house, Cobb dormitory or on Laurel Hill Road, and where the bells keep ringing periodically the day long, with the chimes taking over in the majesty of twilight and on certain important occasions such as the big football games.

Not really a village any more, although its inhabitants, some living in the past, like to consider it as such... None of us will go so far as to say that it possesses the tranquility and serenity of the Twenties, when Thomas Wolfe, and Paul Green and LeGette Blythe and "Monk" McDonald and the Carmichaels found adventure, melancholy and beauty in their diverse pursuits on the old campus and the unexplored lands beyond... It is not as small, and not quite as nice, but almost, and there is a whole new world of knowledge to be discovered here with resources of mind and matter in abundance.

Chapel Hill, where the civic clubs do not sing, salute flags or wear badges, but unostentatiously and quietly engage in humanitarian projects as earnestly as their backslapping counterparts of the cities... Where its only commercial radio station taboos hillbilly tunes and plays sweet music and deathless great arias.

In Chapel Hill that man in dungarees, coming out of the post office, is just as apt to be a best-selling novelist as the town's leading plumber or the divorced author of profound treatises on the science of nuptial compatibility... Where shoe shines, on the most modest leather, cost you twenty cents per copy, with the same treatment from five to ten cents cheaper in a much larger town across the way, but there you are not waited on by one of the town's most popular citizens who contributes philosophy, sound sense and remarkably accurate football prognostications as a dividend to the dab of mundane polish.

People in our town go to church, pray, are kind and considerate, both the students and the townspeople, as in all towns... But where some of the ministers never wear hats, do wear sweaters, and sometimes drive the more modest editions of those little foreign make sports cars, but their democracy in manners is no compromise with the dignity of their souls, for our town is blessed with able and Godly preachers.

Chapel Hillians, like the folks in your town or city, play poker and bridge, but strangely, little or no gin rummy, and they play golf and handball... Chapel Hill, where the tiniest tots are able swimmers, and old men play an exciting brand of tennis... Where there are circles and cliques, as in all towns, for the socials, round tables and sports, but where those who travel together are frequently of oddly dissimilar tastes... A famous singer breaks bread often and attends games with a Kenan professor... A coach has tea regularly with a brilliant author... A university department head finds more wisdom, truth and beauty in the philosophy of a bistro keeper than in the ivory towers of his own intellectual level and prefers his company... But Chapel Hill is a town of neighbors who are bird watchers and who tend their flowers with loving care and talk over stone walls and drink their coffee or cocktails while talking oftenest about their children and grandchildren... That's Chapel Hill. God bless our town and its gentle way of life.

A couple of veterans also had standout senior seasons. Although slowed by an ankle injury early in the year, linebacker Micah Moon (39 at far right and middle) won all-conference honors. Tailback Ethan Horton (right and below) captured his second straight Atlantic Coast Conference rushing title and was named the ACC Player of the Year by the Associated Press.

An important factor in a 4-1-1 finish by Carolina was the steady improvement of defensive players like Noel McEachern (right), Tim Morrison (returning an interception far right) and Ron Burton (forcing a fumble below middle). As the season progressed the Tar Heels did a better job of getting to the football as evidenced below by Reuben Davis (93) and teammates and by Walter Bailey (29) and Troy Simmons (41 at bottom far right).

Quarterback Kevin Anthony (throwing to Ethan Horton above) helped Carolina smash several school passing records. He was helped by sensational receivers like tight end Arnold Franklin (above right) and flanker Earl Winfield (right) who made a series of circus catches.

The 1984 season was one of listening and learning for young players like freshman linebacker Brett Rudolph (discussing strategy with defensive coordinator Denny Marcin below). While there were disappointments early, it was also a season for jumping for joy when things finally went right (as tackle Bobby Pope shows at right), for mass celebrations as those at far right and a season for getting in a big hit as Troy Simmons demonstrates on the following page.

The Outlook

A sound and balanced offense and a veteran defense give Navy hopes for an improved football team in 1985. The Midshipmen have their finest group of running backs in years and also return quarterback Bill Byrne, who helped Navy to nine school passing records last fall. Top returning runner is Napoleon McCallum, a consensus All-America in 1983 who was injured in the second game last year and missed the rest of the season. He led the nation in all-purpose running two years ago and was third in rushing. Although all five of last season's starters in the offensive line have graduated, Coach Gray Tranquill was pleased with his new group's progress in the spring. Navy won't be as experienced there, but will be bigger and stronger. There is plenty of experience on defense where nine starters return. That unit is headed by all-star candidate Eric Fudge at end. Another key player for the Midshipmen is kicker Todd Solomon, who made 15 of 18 field goal attempts last fall.

The Outlook

Coach Bill Arnsparger returns 48 lettermen, including 12 starters, from last year's team which finished 8-3-1 with an appearance in the Sugar Bowl. Heading the list of returnees is Heisman Trophy and All-America candidate Dalton Hilliard. Last year Hilliard rushed for 1,268 yards, ranking seventh in the nation. He is LSU's second-leading career rusher. Additional offensive help will come from quarterback Jeff Wickersham. In his third year as the Tigers' starting quarterback, Wickersham has rewritten the school's passing records. He rates as a top All-America candidate. Four starters are missing from the offensive interior, but that unit should again be solid. The defense is headed by outside linebacker Michael Brooks, a second-team All-America last year. Other key returnees are inside linebacker Shawn Burks, defensive end Karl Wilson and cornerback Kevin Guidry. LSU rates both Wilson and Guidry as top contenders for all-star honors.

The Outlook

A veteran offense, which features good talent at the skilled positions, has VMI hoping for an improved team under first-year coach Eddie Williamson. The Keydets return nine starters on offense, including quarterback Al Comer, runningback Trent Bridges and fullback John Parrott. Comer, who started the last half of the 1984 season, had an impressive spring as did Bridges, VMI's leading rusher a year ago. Another important figure for VMI is tight end Steve Pancham, an All-Southern Conference selection last season. Defensively, VMI's strength should be the secondary where Ambrose Phillips and Chris Clark return as starters. Veterans Mike Mayo and Mark Bristol round out what should be a solid unit. Up front the key man is guard Dan Young. Depth is a major concern, both offensively and defensively. The kicking game is also a question mark.

The Outlook

With 49 lettermen and 14 starters returning from last year's 6-4-1 team, Georgia Tech's football outlook is its brightest in some time. Coach Bill Curry will look to All-ACC quarterback John Dewberry to key the offense with speedy fullback Malcolm King and junior tailback Cory Collier handling the graduated Robert Lavette's running duties. All-America candidate John Davis leads the offensive line from his tackle post, while big-play flanker Gary Lee will be Dewberry's primary receiver. Defensively, nine starters are back from a unit which led the ACC in three of four statistical categories last fall. End Pat Swilling is a fine pass rusher. He will team with end Ken Parker and noseguard Ivery Lee to provide size and experience up front with seniors Jim Anderson and Ted Roof supplying solid play at linebacker. Experience abounds in the secondary where cornerbacks Mike Travis and Reginald Rutland have started together for three seasons and Cleve Pounds rates as an all-star candidate.

The Outlook

With last year's winning season as a foundation, Wake Forest heads into 1985 in a most positive frame of mind. The Deacons, whose 6-5 record last fall was only the school's second winning mark in 13 years, boast a proven offensive backfield and senior leadership throughout a veteran defensive unit. That provides Coach Al Groh with definite expectations for continued success. Returning on offense is Foy White who took over as the starting quarterback after three games in 1984. Other key players there are wide receiver James Brim, running backs Michael Ramseur and Topper Clemons, tight end Kevin Wieczorek and place-kicker Doug Illing. Ramseur is the top returning rusher in the ACC. Seven starters return on defense. That group is led by All-ACC lineman Gary Baldinger. Other top defenders figure to be outside linebackers Tony Garbarczyk and Ken Grantham, cornerback Rory Holt and free safety Reggie McCummings. Major concern on defense is replacing two starters in the secondary.

The Outlook

A strong offensive line, led by tackle Joe Milinichik, and a revamped defensive unit, featuring an even-man front, are counted on as major keys for N.C. State this fall. The Wolfpack has a wealth of talent and experience with 45 returning lettermen from 1984, including 16 starters. Coach Tom Reed feels he solved his two biggest problems in spring practice—finding a quarterback and strengthening the defense. Junior college transfer Erik Kramer won the signal-calling duties and the installation of the wide-tackle six defensive alignment helped that unit. Kramer will operate behind a veteran offensive line, headed by the 6-5, 295-pound Milinichik. There is depth and speed at wide receiver. Although Joe McIntosh has departed, State still has three excellent runners in Vince Evans, Mike Miller and Rickey Isom. There is inexperience in the defensive interior, but the rest of that unit is filled with veterans. Mike Cofer, who has led the Wolfpack in scoring the last two seasons, returns to handle the place-kicking duties.

The Outlook

Maryland goes into the 1985 season with a Top 10 pre-season ranking and a seven-game winning streak. Optimism at College Park is fueled by the return of 49 lettermen, including 17 starters. Maryland won nine of its last 10 games in 1984, averaging 478 yards a game in total offense and 36 points. The offense should again be explosive with the return of fullback Rick Badanjek, the school's top touchdown producer with 34, and quarterback Stan Gelbaugh. Gelbaugh started five games last year, losing only at Penn State, 25-24. Alvin Blount and Tommy Neal are back at running back where they combined for 1,377 yards rushing and 15 touchdowns in 1984. There is both speed and depth at the receiving positions. Defensively, the Terps should again be outstanding. Nine starters return from last season, including seven of the front eight in the wide-tackle six. That unit is headed by guard Bruce Mesner and safety Al Covington.

The Outlook

All-America guard Jamie Dukes and wide receiver Hassan Jones return to lead an offense with plenty of talent. But, there is a question at quarterback where incumbent starter Eric Thomas has had shoulder surgery. If Thomas is healthy or Danny McManus or Kirk Coker steps forward at that spot, the attack will be explosive again. Jones averaged 17.9 yards a catch last year with seven TD receptions. Tony Smith steps in for Greg Allen at tailback and there is also depth there. Dukes and tackle John Ionata head up the offensive line. The defensive line will also be a good one. Tackles Isaac Williams and Gerald Nichols, nose guard Todd Stroud and outside linebacker Garth Jax return as starters. Second-leading tackler Fred Jones could be a big-play man at linebacker. A concern is the secondary where cornerback Eric Williams is the only returning starter. The kicking game is one of the nation's best with punter Louis Berry, who has a 42.3 career average, and place-kicker Derek Schmidt, the country's top freshman scorer in 1984 with 93 points.

The Outlook

Coach Danny Ford says Clemson is facing its biggest rebuilding challenge in his six years as head coach. Biggest problem is on offense where the Tigers return just one starter in the offensive line and do not have an experienced quarterback. However, there is great talent at running back with the return of Terrence Flagler, Stacey Driver and Kenny Flowers. In addition, Terrance Roulhac returns at wide receiver after leading the ACC in touchdown catches last year with eight. Randy Anderson and Rodney Williams lack experience at quarterback, but have good ability. Defensively, the Tigers return tackle Michael Dean Perry and bandit end Terence Mack up front. Biggest question mark is the secondary where three starters are missing. However, Ford does have experienced athletes there. In addition, Clemson has utilized a sizeable red-shirt program in recent years, holding out 16 of 18 freshmen last season, so there is plenty of good young talent on hand.

The Outlook

Geore Welsh heads into his fourth fall as Virginia's head coach with the Cavaliers coming off their finest season in over 30 years. Virginia compiled an 8-2-2 record in 1984, finished second in the Atlantic Coast Conference standings and defeated Purdue, 27-24, in the Peach Bowl. It was the first bowl appearance ever for UVa and the Cavaliers finished the year ranked among the top 20 teams in both of the major polls. Welsh returns a veteran offensive unit this fall, but must replace seven starters on defense. Offensively, seven starters return, led by senior Outland Trophy candidate Jim Dombrowski at left tackle, senior center Harold Garren, junior quarterback Don Majkowski and junior tailback Howard Petty. Majkowski passed and ran for 1540 yards in 1984 and Petty rushed for 811 yards. There is both talent and speed returning among the Cavalier receivers. Key returning players on defense include senior linebackers Charles McDaniel and Russ Swan and end Sean Scott.

The Outlook

The return of 52 lettemen, including 15 starters, has Duke Coach Steve Sloan optimistic about the 1985 season. Plagued by injuries last year, the Blue Devils were forced to play a number of young, inexperienced people. Now those players are back with some experience under their belts and all of last season's injured are healthy again. That group includes tailback Julius Grantham who missed six games with a knee injury, but still led Duke in rushing. Joining Grantham in the backfield will be sophomore quarterback Steve Slayden who passed for 1,229 yards a year ago, third-highest among the nation's freshman signal-callers. The offensive line is experienced with four starters back and there are both depth and talent at all the receiving positions. The Blue Devils return seven defensive starters, including their top two tacklers from last year, linebackers Mike Junkin and Nick Buoniconti. Biggest problem spot on defense may be the secondary where Johnny Hill and Joby Branion have graduated.

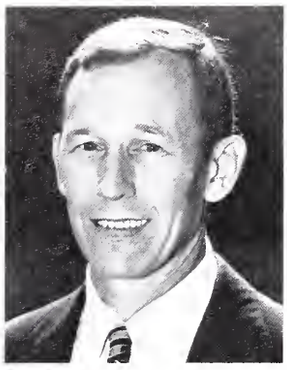
The Educational Foundation



Moyer Smith

Neal Harrell

John Cherry

One of the most important organizations in the Carolina Athletic Department is the University's Educational Foundation.

It is the Educational Foundation which makes possible all athletic scholarships awarded by Carolina.

As the Tar Heels' sports program has grown through the years, the Foundation has done likewise. It currently has over 6,500 members who finance a scholarship program that costs $1,800,000 a year.

"Since its inauguration in 1938, the Foundation has provided scholarships, either partial or full, for over 4,000 student-athletes," says Ernie Williamson, the Foundation's executive vice-president.

Williamson feels the overall bonus of being a Foundation member is helping a worthy young student obtain a college education. He says the high caliber young athlete who is awarded a scholarship is a great representative of the University.

Any donation to the Foundation is welcome. However, membership in the Rams Club is restricted to those who contribute $150 or more.

Carolina was one of the first schools in the nation to set up an endowment program for athletics. This program was started in 1968 and has already surpassed the $7,000,000 mark.

The endowment program consists of $50,000 endowed scholarships, life memberships of $15,000 and $30,000, wills and bequests and a new dimension—a pooled income fund. Under the pooled income plan, a member gives a principal sum to the Foundation and then receives the interest off that during the remainder of his life.

A special room on the south wing of Kenan Fieldhouse serves as a meeting place for Rams and their families. This area is open two hours before football games and provides a lounge and picnic area for those who come early.

The Foundation operates on a dignified and realistic plane in compliance with all of the regulations of the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Other members of the Foundation staff are Moyer Smith, John Cherry and Neal Harrell. Along with Williamson, Mary Baggett, Wendy Mann, Terri Bare, Jean Gunter, and Dawn McPherson, they have made the Foundation better able to serve its members.

"We couldn't have the type program we do without the Educational Foundation," says Athletic Director John Swofford. "We've enlarged our staff in the last three years and I think the staff additions we have made will enable us to do a better job for our members."

Ernie Williamson

The man who stands at the helm of the Educational Foundation is popular Ernie Williamson, the executive vice-president.

The former star Carolina tackle is one of the most active individuals on the Tar Heel sports scene. He is constantly on the go—talking with Foundation members, speaking to prospective members or avidly following all of Carolina's athletic teams.

Williamson is a Carolina graduate with A.B. and M.A. degrees. The native of Crewe, Va. played one season of football here under Carl Snavely and was regarded as an outstanding tackle. He was lured away to professional football and played with New York and Washington before a knee injury ended his career.

Williamson returned to Chapel Hill to finish work on his degrees and then went to the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn. He was an assistant coach there for two years and head coach for three seasons.

He returned to Carolina in 1957 to accept his present position. At one time he also served as a recruiter for the football program.

Ernie is married to the former Elva Smith of Lawrenceville, Va. They have a son, Wayne, and a daughter, Carole.

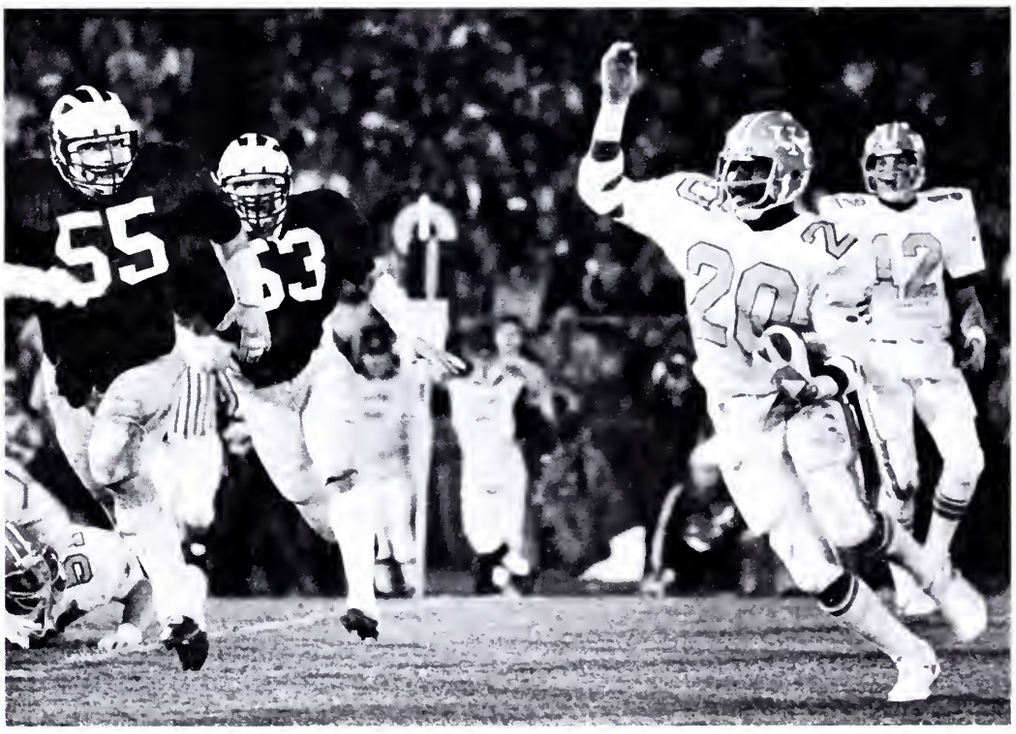
*Bowl game competition



Amos Lawrence gaining part of his 118 yards against Michigan in the 1979 Gator Bowl.

Carolina's 1,000-Yard Rushers

1,000 yards.

That's the magic figure for any runner in football.

Call him a halfback, a running back, a tailback, an I-Back or whatever you want. But, when he rushes for 1,000 yards, you simply call him something special.

Nowhere in college football have there been more special runners than at the University of North Carolina.

In the last 16 years Tar Heel tailbacks have rushed for over 1,000 yards on 17 occasions. That gives Carolina more 1,000-yard backs than anyone else in collegiate history.

The University of Southern California has produced sixteen 1,000-yard rushers. That's the second-highest total in the game and puts the Tar Heels and the Trojans well ahead of everyone else.

When Ethan Horton broke the 1,000-yard barrier for the second straight time last fall, it marked an incredible 12th consecutive season in which at least one Carolina player has reached the magic figure.

Three times in that 12-year stretch, the Tar Heels had two tailbacks get 1,000 yards in the same season. Other schools have also had two players get 1,000 yards in the same year, but in all those instances the two played different positions and were in the game together. Only at Carolina have the two actually shared the same spot—tailback in the Tar Heels' I-formation.

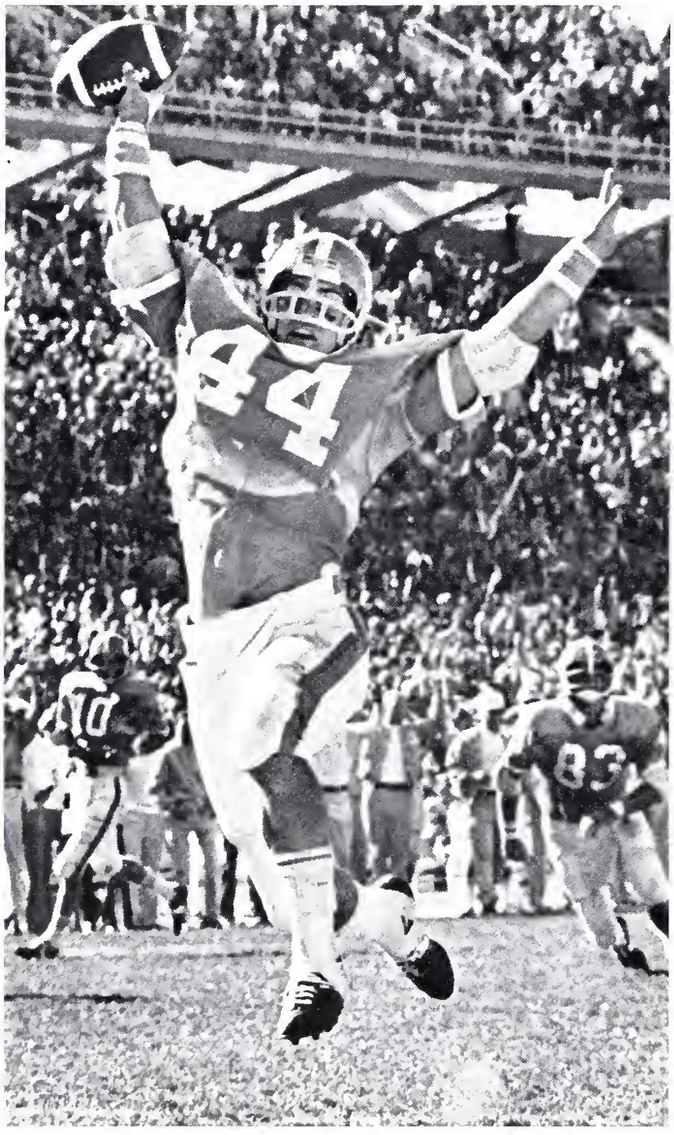
Tailback at Carolina, in fact, has become the glamour position in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Year in and year out, more attention goes to Tar Heel tailbacks than to players at any other position at any other school in the league. To be a tailback at Carolina, one has to be a superb athlete, one of the nation's best players, someone special.

How has Carolina been able to produce so many 1,000-yard backs?

Certainly, having outstanding runners has been a major factor. But, other schools also have had great backs and haven't been able to compile the figures of Carolina. For example, the Tar Heels have had more 1,000-yard rushers than Alabama, Notre Dame and Penn State combined.

No, there are also other reasons, the most important of which are probably fine offensive linemen, belief in the I-formation and tradition. Those reasons also had true for Southern California.

Carolina and USC have each had two players rush for 1,000 yards three times—Mike Voight



Mike Voight

Amos Lawrence

nd Kelvin Bryant of the Tar Heels and the 'rojans' Charles White and Anthony Davis.

In addition, Carolina's Amos Lawrence had n amazing four 1,000-yard seasons. He and 'ittsburgh's Tony Dorsett are the only major ollege players ever to hit the 1,000-yard mark our times.

The biggest difference between the tailback ystems at Carolina and Southern Cal is that 'rojan backs have generally had higher yar- lage totals. But, USC usually picks one player is its tailback and sticks with him throughout he season. In fact, Southern Cal has never ad two backs gain 1,000 yards in the same eason.

Carolina, on the other hand, has alternated ailbacks quite a bit, trying to keep a fresh layer in the game at all times. When two players split a position, their individual yar- dage totals obviously aren't as high as those of runners who stay in the game constantly. The Tar Heel philosophy is simply that if you've got two great runners, let them both play. In the long run, both will be more effective.

That's not to say Carolina would never go with a system like USC's. If one runner is clearly better than all others, he will get the majority of the playing time. For example, Don McCauley rushed for 1,720 yards in 1970. At that time that broke O.J. Simpson's all-time NCAA single-season yardage record. Still, McCauley's backup, Ike Oglesby, had 562 yards.

McCauley is Carolina's only 1,000-yard back not from either North Carolina or Virgina. He is a native of Garden City, N.Y.

Horton, Bryant, Tyrone Anthony, James Betterson and Sammy Johnson are all North Carolinians. Lawrence and Voight grew up in Virginia.

All have played professional football. McCauley and Bryant have had the most suc- cess to date. McCauley played with the Balti- more Colts for 11 seasons and broke many of the club's rushing and scoring records set by Alan Ameche and Lenny Moore. Bryant was the USFL Player of the Year in the league's first season and is regarded as one of the top two or three runners in the pro game. Horton was the first running back chosen in last spring's NFL draft.

Horton and Johnson were recruited as quarterbacks. All of the others were high school halfbacks, although McCauley was best known as a defensive back.

These players have turned in some of the greatest individual performances in ACC his- tory. In fact, Carolina players have had the three best rushing days in league history. Lawrence holds the ACC rushing record with 286 yards against Virginia in 1977. McCauley has the second-best figure with 279 yards against Duke in 1970. Third on the ACC rushing list is Voight's 261 yards against Duke in 1976.

Top single-season efforts ever in the ACC were McCauley's 1,720 yards in 1970 and Voight's 1,407 in 1976.

It has been performances like that which have made Carolina's tailback position what it is—a spot filled with tradition, a spot for spe- cial players, a spot for 1,000-yard rushers.

Choo Choo

The Incomparable Charlie Justice

There is an understandable tendency by sports fans to be wary when an athlete is called "the absolute greatest ever" or "the best who ever played."

It is so difficult to compare athletes of the past with those of today that such descriptions are generally regarded as exaggerations of overzealous publicists.

Even with that in mind, however, it is undeniably safe to say that the greatest all-around football player ever to wear Carolina Blue was Charlie "Choo Choo" Justice.

Pictures by Hugh Morton

Some have even said Charlie Justice was the best all-around player in the history of the South. We won't go that far even though there's a good chance it's true. We don't want to make our readers too wary.

Charlie Justice was more than just a great football player. He was a bonafide superstar... a hero... a legend in his own time. He had an impact on his home state as no other athlete had ever had before or few have had since.

During his four years in Chapel Hill, from 1946 to 1949, Justice helped guide the Tar Heels to three major bowl games. For one week during the 1948 season Carolina was ranked as the nation's number one college football team. The Tar Heels ended that year rated third, the best finish in school history.

It is no wonder then he was held in great esteem by everyone in the state. Certainly, the time was right for a hero like Charlie Justice. The war had just ended and people wanted to turn their attention to more pleasant things. They wanted someone to make them forget the trauma they had just suffered. So they looked for heroes and they found Charlie Justice.

In his book, They Made the Bell Tower Chime, the late Bob Quincy summed up Charlie Justice's college career quite succintly. An excerpt is repeated here:

The Justice Era of 1946-49 was the most exciting in Carolina's football history. Charlie was the ringleader of a circus of thrills. He set the pace, but his backing was superb. Carl Snavely had so many football players he couldn't have named them all had he taken a memory course. The Tar Heels operated from the single wing with the kind of variations that at times resembled the Harlem Globetrotters' pre-game ball-handling act. The four seasons netted 32 victories, seven losses and two deadlocks. Plus three major bowl appearances.

The 170-pound Justice was one of the nation's most sought-after players when he enrolled at Carolina. Some called him the hottest property in the history of football at that time. He had been a standout at Asheville's Lee Edwards High, leading the Maroons to two unbeaten seasons. He was All-Southern two years at Asheville, and as a member of the Shrine Bowl football team in 1942 he scored three touchdowns against South Carolina, a record that still stands.

The Navy became home for Charlie during he war years, and he became a phantom on a ro-studded Bainbridge Navy squad. After two ears of romping for Bainbridge against oppo- ents across the country, he was a target for ro offers from the Philadelphia Eagles and Vashington.

Charlie wanted an education, and scouts tayed in pursuit. He chose Chapel Hill after eriously considering South Carolina and Duke. An off-hand remark by Snavely—"I ope he comes out for football"—became a lassic understatement.

Justice was all his press clippings indi- ated—and more.

Smart! Example: In the Virginia Tech open- r, Justice had two kicks blocked. He bristled nd vowed it would never happen again. It lidn't during his collegiate career.

After Virginia Tech's 14-14 stalemate, a hocker to say the least, the Tar Heels played t Miami. Early in the game, Justice went back o punt. The Hurricane came hard with an ll-out rush to block him. He faked the kick nd ripped off a 65-yard touchdown run.

In the Virginia game his freshman year he gained 170 yards in 17 carries with runs of 18, 40 and 56 yards. He had seen little practice because of a leg injury, but the Cavaliers were certain he carried a spare appendage.

Choo Choo (he acquired the name at Bain- bridge when a gob remarked, "He runs along just like a choo choo train,") was excitement. He was all eagerness on the sidelines and all business when he moved into the tailback slot. He thrived on duty, and he was a master of the quick kick, a devastating rusher, a good pas- ser, and a fake artist who could charm a cobra.

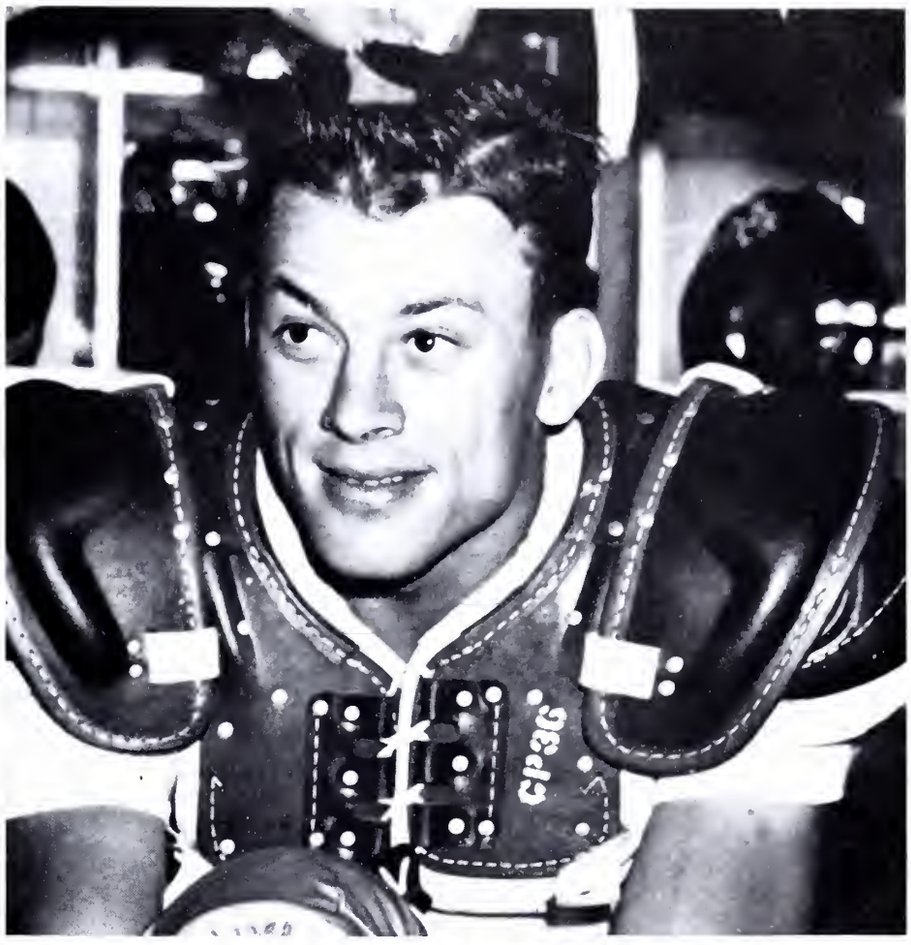
Jack Fitch, a thick-legged back who occa- sionally shared duty with Justice when not playing the wing, sized up Charlie's style by noting, "Justice has the ability to be running at full speed, stop suddenly, and then be back at full speed almost instantly. He was never regarded as fast in terms of a track man. He had a change of pace that couldn't be matched, and he knew how to follow blockers as well as any back I've ever watched."

Justice was blessed by having excellent blocking backs in front of him (Joe Wright, Don Hartig, Eddie Knox, Paul Rizzo, Bobby Weant) and two fullbacks in Hosea Rodgers and Walt Pupa who could pass as well as run. Pupa had been a tailback in pre-war years.

The Snavely system called for a spinning fullback, fakes and counter fakes, fullback pass plays and reverses. It was a dashing brand of football made more exciting by men who had the ability and maturity to accept Snavely's often complicated maneuvers.

A book, "Choo Choo," documents the career of Charlie Justice. He was a folk hero and deserved the special treatment. The great Benny Goodman and the late Johnny Long recorded the Campbell-Beebe song, "All the Way Choo Choo." It sold by the thousands.

Typical of Justice was the Georgia game of 1948. He scored three times against the Bull- dogs in a 21-14 triumph, the climax being an 84-yard punt return. At mid-way point that season, the Tar Heels were ranked No. 1 in the nation.



Justice erased more records than a com- pany of auditors during his four years at UNC. He scored 234 points and passed or ran for 64 touchdowns. As a ball carrier he accumulated 2,634 yards.

His total offense record is still in the books at 4,883 yards. His punting average for four years was 42.6 yards per kick for 231 boots. Justice also was a dependable defensive player, going both ways on occasion for the Tar Heels and also as a Redskin.

Justice seemed to peak when the traditional games were being played. He led the Tar Heels to four straight wins over Duke. He was an All-America mention as a freshman and made many of the major teams as a junior and as a senior. He was runner-up for the Heisman Trophy to Doak Walker of SMU in 1949.

Charlie's finest moment came in the Col- lege All-Star Game of 1950 at Chicago's Sol- dier Field. He was voted the MVP of the game for good reason. The All-Stars walloped the Philadelphia Eagles, led by Steve Van Buren, 17-7. Justice gained 133 yards individually, or 48 more than the Eagles posted as a team. He set up a touchdown on a 60-yard pass from Eddie LeBaron of College of the Pacific.

Every year since Charlie's departure from Chapel Hill, someone has a "find" who is labeled as "the next Charlie Justice." No player has yet come up to Choo Choo's standards. Good runners, yes! Expert passers, yes! Boom- ing punters, yes! But for endurance, ability to dazzle the crowd and overall quality, there was only one Charlie Justice.

Carolina Linebackers

The rookie who has made the biggest impact on the National Football League in recent years is unquestionably Lawerence Taylor, the sensational linebacker of the New York Giants.

Rarely has a defensive newcomer achieved what Taylor has in his first four years in the NFL. But, rarely has a rookie entered the professional ranks with the ability of Taylor.

Of course, Taylor's initial success with the Giants came as no surprise to those who had followed his great career at the University of North Carolina.

And the fact Taylor played at Carolina was no surprise to NFL fans. The Tar Heels have been turning out star linebackers for years.

The biggest star of them all may well be Taylor. Not only was he chosen the league's defensive rookie of the year in 1981 by everyone who makes such a selection, but he also was named NFL Defensive Player of the Year. He received more votes than any other NFC player in balloting for the Pro Bowl.

The second player chosen in the college draft, Taylor actually helped turn the Giant franchise around. New York, which had only a 4-12 record in 1980, improved to 9-7 in Taylor's first year there. The Giants made the playoffs for the first time since 1963.

The major reason for that improvement was an outstanding defense featuring Taylor. The New York offense wasn't great by any means, but the defense was strong enough to offset that.

Taylor has proved that rookie year was no fluke by being named Defensive Player of the Year again in each of the past three seasons.

Taylor had similar success at Carolina. He was a consensus All-America and the Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year in his senior season.

However, as mentioned earlier, Taylor was not the first Tar Heel linebacker to reach stardom in the NFL. The year before Taylor entered the league, the NFL's best rookie linebacker was Buddy Curry of the Atlanta Falcons.

Two former Tar Heel linebackers helped their teams reach the Super Bowl in the 1970's. Chris Hanburger sparked a Redskin defense which took Washington to Super Bowl VII. John Bunting was a key performer for the Philadelphia Eagles when they reached Super Bowl XV.

Hanburger is one of four former Tar Heel linebackers who have played in the Pro Bowl in the last 20 years. The others are Taylor, Bill Koman of the St. Louis Cardinals and Rip Hawkins of the Minnesota Vikings.

Hawkins, Hanburger and Curry were all two-time All-ACC selections during their college days. Jimmy DeRatt, a linebacker at Carolina in the 1970's, was also a two-time all-conference choice.

Other Tar Heel linebackers who have made the All-ACC team since 1970 are Bunting, Taylor, Bill Richardson, Mike Mansfield, Darrell Nicholson, Lee Shaffer, Chris Ward, Mike Wilcher and Micah Moon.

Moon signed an NFL contract with the Atlanta Falcons last spring, joining seven other Tar Heel linebackers still active in professional football—Taylor, Bunting, Curry, Calvin Daniels of the Kansas City Chiefs, Paul Davis of the New York Giants, Shelton Robinson of the Seattle Seahawks and Wilcher, who plays for the Los Angeles Rams.

The First Forward Pass

While it is foolish to state emphatically that the first forward pass was thrown by a North Carolina football team, certain records would indicate as much. No less an authority than John Heisman himself credits the Tar Heels with the game's first pass.

The scene was Atlanta on October 26, 1895. Carolina and Georgia were locked in a scoreless struggle in the game's closing moments. The Tar Heels were in a punting situation deep in their own territory. Here is an account of what then happened as reported by Heisman in a 1928 edition of Collier's Weekly:

"The North Carolina fullback retreated until the crossbar of his goal was above his head and from the Georgia stands came the exhortation to "block it, block it, block it."

"And Georgia's forwards, gathering all their waning strength and riding over North Carolina's tired defense, might have blocked it and even scored, had the sturdy boy from North Carolina kicked.

"But instead of punting into the leaping bodies of those onrushing Georgians, he ran a few mincing steps to the right. Raising the ball to his shoulder he tossed it.

"Luck was with the boy. The ball was caught by a North Carolinian. Now as we know forward passes, it wasn't much. It traveled a few yards and laterally as well as forward. It may have appeared to the spectators that it had been knocked from that fullback's hands.

"At any rate the lad who caught it ran 70 yards for a touchdown!

"I had seen the first forward pass in college football. It was illegal, of course. Already Pop Warner, the Georgia coach, was storming at the referee. But the referee had not seen the North Carolina lad, goaded to desperation, toss the ball. A touchdown had been made and a touchdown it remained."

Other accounts of the game do not mention the forward pass. However, George Stephens is credited with a 70-yard touchdown run in the game.

At any rate, Heisman wrote that he immediately saw the possibilities that the forward pass had. He personally wrote Walter Camp about the play.

The forward pass was discussed for several years. It became a part of the rules at Camp's suggestion in 1906.

Certainly, the idea of the pass had to come from something. It may well have been Carolina's strange play in 1895.

Carolina's Bowl History

North Carolina has played in 15 post-season bowl games, including 1 in the last 15 years.

No other Atlantic Coast Conference team has been to as many owls in this recent stretch as Carolina. In fact, the only schools in merica which have played in more bowls in this period are Nebraska 15), Alabama (14), Ohio State (14), Texas (14), Penn State (13) and klahoma (12). Carolina, Georgia and Michigan are tied for seventh ith 11 appearances each.

Carolina's post-season trips have been to the Sugar Bowl in 1947 nd 1949; the Cotton Bowl in 1950; the Peach Bowl in 1970, 1976 and 983; the Sun Bowl in 1972, 1974 and 1982; the Liberty Bowl in 1977; he Bluebonnet Bowl in 1980; and the Gator Bowl in 1963, 1971, 1979 nd 1981.

The Tar Heels' bowl history started in the late Forties when Charlie Choo Choo" Justice was running wild from the single wing. Carolina ent to bowl games three times during the Justice Era, but lost all hree.

Perhaps the most famous of those games was the 1947 Sugar Bowl which matched Carolina against Georgia. The game produced one of he most controversial plays in bowl history. Carolina was leading 7-0 n the third period when Bulldog defensive end Joe Tereshinski ntercepted a Tar Heel pass. He then flipped a lateral to Dick McPhee who raced to the Carolina 14.

The Tar Heels argued the lateral was a forward one and the play hould have been called back. However, the officials ruled differently. Georgia went on to score and eventually won the game.

Carolina returned to the Sugar Bowl two years later and lost to Oklahoma, 14-6. Justice had a great day for the Tar Heels, clicking off runs of 10, 13, 25, 11 and 14 yards. He punted four times for 65, 65, 57, and 53 yards.

Justice had another great day in the 1950 Cotton Bowl, but Carolina lost to Rice, 27-13.

The Tar Heels' next bowl appearance came in the 1963 Gator Bowl where Carolina walloped the Air Force, 35-0. Ken Willard was the big star that day. He ran for 94 yards on 18 carries and scored the first touchdown which keyed the runaway victory.

In the 1970 Peach Bowl the Tar Heels dropped a wild 48-26 decision to unbeaten Arizona State. All-America tailback Don McCauley had 143 yards rushing and three touchdowns for Carolina. But a second-half snowstorm and an injury to quarterback Paul Miller helped the Sun Devils to race to victory.

The 1971 Gator Bowl produced a bowl first—brothers opposing each other as coaches in bowl competition. It matched Vince Dooley of Georgia against Bill of Carolina. The game was a great defensive struggle in which the Bulldogs came from behind to win, 7-3.

Carolina capped an 11-1 season in the 1972 Sun Bowl by defeating Texas Tech, 32-28. Quarterback Nick Vidnovic was the big star, completing 14 of 26 passes for 215 yards. He fired a 62-yard scoring strike to Ted Leverenz to help the Tar Heels to a 24-21 halftime lead.

Tech came back to go ahead, 28-24, but Vidnovic hit Leverenz with a 13-yard TD pass with just a minute to play to bring Carolina back. The Tar Heels then added two more points when Ronnie Robinson dropped Raider quarterback Joe Barnes for a safety.

Mike Voight and James Betterson had big days rushing in the 1974 Sun Bowl, but Mississippi State won another thriller, 26-24. The Tar Heels put on a desperation drive in the game's closing moments, but were stopped on a fourth-and-one at their own 48-yard line.

Playing without the injured Voight, Caroina lost to Kentucky, 21-0, in the 1976 Peach Bowl. The Tar Heels had trouble all day with a tough Wildcat defense.

Carolina dropped a heartbreaking 21-17 decision to Nebraska in the 1977 Liberty Bowl. Sparked by quarterback Matt Kupec, the Tar Heels held a 17-7 lead going into the fourth period. However, the Cornhuskers rallied behind reserve quarterback Randy Garcia to score their come-from-behind victory.

Kupec and Amos Lawrence were the big stars in Carolina's 17-15 win over Michigan in the 1979 Gator Bowl. Kupec directed a 97-yard touchdown drive in the third quarter which put the Tar Heels ahead to stay (14-9). Jeff Hayes later added a 32-yard field goal. Michigan scored with 1:28 left to cut the lead to two, but a two-point pass failed.

Kupec completed 18 of 28 passes, while Lawrence ran for 118 yards. They were named co-MVPs.

Lawrence again was the big star in Carolina's 16-7 win over Texas in the 1980 Bluebonnet Bowl. He rushed for 104 yards and had a 59-yard touchdown run. Carolina's other scoring came on a short plunge by Kelvin Bryant and a field goal by Hayes. A key factor in this game was the Carolina defense which limited the Longhorns to just two first downs and only 36 yards of total offense in the second half. Lawrence topped Bryant in voting for the game's outstanding offensive player, while Steve Streater edged Lawrence Taylor in balloting for the defensive MVP.

Bryant and his backup, Ethan Horton, both had big nights as Carolina defeated Arkansas, 31-27, in the 1981 Gator Bowl. Bryant rushed for 148 yards and Horton added 144. They shared the MVP award.

Horton again was the big star in 1982 as Carolina came from behind to defeat seventh-ranked Texas, 26-10, in the Sun Bowl. Coming off the bench in the second half for an injured Bryant, Horton rushed for 119 yards and won MVP honors. Sparked by his play, the Tar Heels rallied from a 10-3 halftime deficit.

However, Horton was not the only Carolina star. The Tar Heel defense, which made two brilliant goal line stands, shut down the Texas attack in the second half. Rob Rogers and Brooks Barwick each kicked two field goals despite weather conditions which featured a wind chill factor of 12 degrees and snow throughout the game.

Carolina suffered its first bowl loss under Dick Crum in the 1983 Peach Bowl. Florida State scored the first two times it had the ball and was never headed in a 28-3 victory. The Tar Heels hurt themselves badly with a fumbled punt which allowed FSU to go just 16 yards for its third touchdown and penalties which killed two drives of their own.
